TOWNS ARE MENACED BY LAVA STREAM

Blazing Fluid Creeps Toward Terzigno After New Outbreak in Volcano—Dawn Sees Refugees Heading for Naples.

Naples, Italy, August 1.—(Associated Press.)—A stream of molten lava menaced the town of Terzigno this morning as the blazing fluid, following a new explosive outbreak within Mt. Vesuvius, overflowed from the "Valley of Hell" into the ravines leading toward the Bay of Naples.

Resumption of the volcano's disquieting activity, fulfilling the worst fears of the members of the observatory staff, came after a lull of more than 24 hours. Beginning yesterday morning the eruption progressed unceasingly until the early hours this morning when the lava, having filled the "Valley of Hell," rose above the dikes erected to check its flow into the valley, and then began to run down the paths toward Terzigno.

Despite the fact that the movement of the lava stream was comparatively slow, a large section of the population of Terzigno and neighboring region began to flee towards Naples at dawn.

Activity Increases.

Prof. Malladra, director of the observatory, in a communique issued last night, said: "During the last 12 hours the activity greatly increased, notably in effusive phenomena. The

COAL MINER IS SHOT, 14 BEATEN BY OHIO CROWD

Union Sympathizers Blamed by Company Official for Attack.

Dover, O., August 1.—(Associated Press.)—One nonunion miner was shot and wounded and 11 others were beaten when 200 union sympathizers attacked the nonunion men on their way to the Maple Leaf Coal mine at Newport, near here today.

The attack occurred on a narrow road between Dover and the mine, according to W. C. Roberts, mine superintendent, who was severely beaten.

Roberts said the union sympathizers left their automobiles and began beating the non-union men with clubs and fists. John Vesco, aged 50 years, of Wainwright, was the man injured. He was brought to a hospital here with a bullet wound in the hip and side.

John Harder, Jr., non-union miner, was charged by the attacking force with having shot Vesco and was arrested, but later released when no one appeared to prefer charges against him.

The mine normally employs about 50 men and has been operating on a non-union basis for more than a month.

INCENDIARY BLAZE ATTRACTS CROWDS

Crowds gathered in Forbes street this morning following the discovery of an attempt to burn the confectionery store of Shorall Brothers, 3716 Forbes street. The attempt to destroy the store was frustrated when a youth, residing in the vicinity discovered the blaze near the front of the building at 1:30 o'clock. He broke into the building after raising an alarm.

Four cartons, each containing about three-quarters of a gallon of chemical, supposedly ether, were found under a table, which was ablaze. Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr said. Each of the containers had been connected with a cotton wick, he asserted.

The damage was not extensive due to the early discovery, Pfarr said. John Shorall, manager of the store, is out of the city, according to Miss Pota Pagones, his sister.

FLYER'S FEAT SOLVES NEW AIR PROBLEM

Practicability of Combining Water and Air Routes for Mail and Passenger Service Proven by Take-Off From Leviathan's Deck.

Teterboro, N. J., August 1.—(Associated Press.)—Clarence Chamberlin ended his flight from the steamship Leviathan to Teterboro airport today at 10:31, eastern daylight time.

The flyer, who hopped off the "flying bridge" on the Leviathan at 5:14 this morning, off Five Island, first landed at Curtiss Field, L. I., because of fog. After a short stop he took off again at 10:20.

Flies Through Fog.

The United States Lines said that as soon as Chamberlin landed at Curtiss Field he telephoned the shipping office to report that the flight was a complete success. He said that he could have gone on to Teterboro, but, as there was considerable fog and as there was no necessity for running any risk, he decided to come down at Curtiss Field. He reported that the takeoff from the special runway on the Leviathan was even better than he had hoped for.

The take-off had been set for 7 o'clock, but was delayed by a heavy rainstorm. The hop was made from a specially constructed runway on the Leviathan and was the first flight take-off ever to be made from a passenger liner.

Flight Is Experiment.

Chamberlin's feat was an experiment to prove the practicability of combining steamship and airplane routes to expedite mail service and to some extent passenger travel.

Five minutes before Chamberlin was scheduled to hop off a thunderstorm was in progress. Rain was falling

Thousands of persons are expected to surround the landing space at Bettis Field and give Col. Lindbergh a mighty ovation when he arrives in the famed Spirit of St. Louis Wednesday afternoon.

However, Col. Lindbergh has expressed a desire that the crowds on the field be kept as small as possible in order to minimize the chance of accident, it was said today by a member of the Mayor's reception committee. It was pointed out that if the crowd overflows on the field it will prevent the air hero from landing as his plane may strike some of the spectators. Any accident, no matter how slight, would mar the occasion.

SIX YOUTHS HURT IN AUTO COLLISI

...oth Machines Wrecked in Sandy Creek Road, Near Lincoln Avenue Extension—Victim Pinned Under Wreckage.

Six young men were injured, one of them seriously, when an automobile in which they were riding city-bound, in the Sandy Creek road, near Lincoln avenue extension, collided with a coupe automobile, at 3:30 o'clock this morning.

The Injured:

TANLEY BEZYNSKI, aged 18 years, of 80 Augustine street; possible fracture of several ribs and internal injuries; rendered unconscious; taken to Columbia Hospital.

REGIS AFFELDER, aged 19 years, of 2153 Lydia street; contusions of head and body.

WILLIAM PATTON, aged 20 years, of 2941 Coleman street; bruises of left hand and right leg; taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

CALVIN DARNELL, aged 19 years, of 84 South Twenty-fifth street; head and face bruised.

FRANK O'HANLON, aged 20 years of 2941 Coleman street; both hands cut.

The machine driven by Affelder was forced to the side of the road, it is said, by the coupe, which was eastbound. Affelder lost control when his steering apparatus was rendered out of commission and the car shot down an embankment, turning over several times before it lodged in Sandy Creek. Bezynski was caught under the wrecked car. He was taken to the hospital in a taxicab.

Both machines were wrecked. The occupants of the coupe, two unidentified men, fled before arrival of the police. Those not seriously hurt were given medical attention at the scene of the accident.

hole which broke open July 9 at the base of the eruptive cone, and which on Saturday seemed to have fallen into inactivity, permitting the members of my staff to approach close enough to photograph it, at noon today (Sunday) suddenly began to spout lava with great vigor, creating again the broad, quick stream of the first day of the present reawakening of the volcano.

"The flaming torrent, after writhing in the western part of the crater, moved, partially through subterranean channels, for a distance of a kilometer, joining many outlets of lava invading the northeast part of the crater, and causing the surface to rise rapidly. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon it reached the level of the crater and at 4 o'clock began to flow into the 'Valley of Hell' along the same ravine through which the lava flowed last November.

Hot Ashes Cover Cone.

"The explosive activity was also extremely violent, with the frequent hurling into the air of large quantities of fragments. The external sides of the large Vesuvian cone were covered abundantly with hot ashes and flaming fragments, most of which were a half inch broad. Many fragments also have fallen as far away as the observatory and funicular level, half way down the side of the mountain."

Prof. Malladra last night did not expect the lava to overflow the valley, although he predicted correctly that it would surpass the geodetic marker at a level of 1,073 meters, constructed by the military geographic institute.

Basing his opinion on the viscosity of the flow, he believed it would go no further than Bafola, in the "Valley of Hell," but the continued violent activity of the volcano after midnight upset his calculations.

Tourists Forbidden.

Although Prof. Malladra and his staff spent another sleepless night at the crater, strict orders were issued forbidding all tourists and sightseeing parties to go up the side of the mountain. These orders were issued after flaming fragments began to reach the Remou Hotel, half-way point on the funicular railway line.

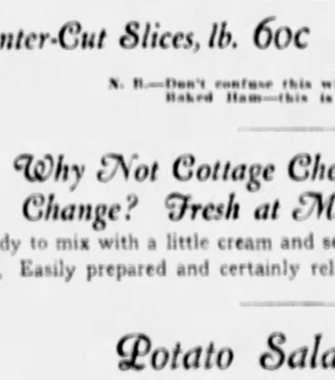
"House-Party" Ham!

"Boiled" Ham Brought Up-to-Date Through McCann Originality



Such ham!—similar in appearance to the old "boiled ham" but possessing a vastly different flavor which places it in the front rank of meat delicacies.

Since we began preparing our own hams, without advertising, our sales have leaped to eight times their former volume. Surely this is evidence that there is something exceptional about it.

The secret of this extraordinary flavor is ours—discovered in our own kitchens. A combination of well-known condiments is placed in the center of the ham in the space left by the removal of the bone. During the cooking process this flavor permeates every particle of the meat.

Every detail in the preparation of this McCann product is handled by McCann men—the removal of the bone, tying, pressing and cooking. It isn't boiled at all, but is slowly cooked for hours at a controlled temperature. This prevents the flavory juices from being drawn from the meat.

Delicious for sandwiches—ideal served cold. Many women like to add their own individuality by studding with cloves and baking it in their own ovens. Ask for a taste at the Meat Section.

eclare Controller's Charges in Report Are Confusing and Untrue.

EFEND BOARD ACTIONS

County Controller Charles C. McGovern's charges are termed "misleading," "untrue" and "confusing" in a statement issued by the County Commissioners in reply to the allegations made in the Controller's annual report.

The reply is a general disclaimer of the charges of inefficiency, waste and irregularities made by McGovern.

"If the Controller's volume proves anything at all," the Commissioners declared, "it is that he lacks knowledge of the duties of his office, because he is one official who, by acts of Assembly, has power to stop the expenditures he attacks and to abate the methods of which he complains."

"The Controller's charge that Director of Public Works Brown has spent $15,000,000 without giving an account, is unfair and untrue for two reasons: First, all moneys spent for improvements are first initiated and acted upon by the Board of County Commissioners; second, all moneys that have been expended through the Department of Public Works have been properly accounted for, because they have all passed through the Controller's office, were approved by him, and he has a record of them."

Board's Statement.

The Commissioners' statement, in part, follows:

All moneys spent by Allegheny county, whether it be in connection with the county commissioners or any other office, first have to be approved and go through the hands of the controller, who then sends to the county commissioners a certified authorizing a warrant to be drawn by the county commissioners for the payment of same. He can pay, or refuse to pay, any item that comes before him, and without his approval no payments can be made. The county commissioners or no other officials have any power to contract an; bills without the controller's approval.

The controller's accusations concerning extras on contracts are not only misleading but untrue. The term "extra" is much abused. As a matter of fact payments made under this heading are for additional work which occurs in all large contracts, the necessity of which arises after the contract has been let and which no engineer is capable of foreseeing. This is the common experience in all construction work, whether done by the county or private individuals. But, above all, if there was anything wrong in any of these so-called extras, why is the controller pay them, because he is the sinking fund power over it, as he has over every other expenditure? If there was anything wrong with these so-called extras certainly he is the official the people must hold responsible, as he has the last say in the payment of it.

Debt Statement Confusing.

The controller's charge on the debt statement is misleading, confusing and contradictory, and "shows the strongest evidence of the fact that he is not familiar with the duties of his office. On page 15-A he states it is unknown" to him, and on page 15-A, later in the book, appears a statement showing definite and positive figures. To the latter he took sworn affidavit before Judge Nelson A. McVicar, of the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County, after having been in the office of controller for a period of eight months, which is ample time for any man to become acquainted with an office if he applies his time and is qualified for that kind of work.

In other words, on page 15-A he swears under date of January 31, 1927, that the commissioners' borrowing power as of January 1, 1927, is $7,434,464,756 and that the people's borrowing power is $91,868,320.00, and a few months thereafter he absolutely contradicts his sworn statement by the declaration that he does not know what the commissioners' bonding power is, but that the bonding power of the people, of the same date, is $93,654,040.50.

Party to System.

The controller's charge that large sums of money are entrusted to one employe to attend is a custom that was inaugurated in Allegheny county many years ago and has been followed by every board of county commissioners up to the present. In fact, for a period of 10 months while he was in office the controller was a party to this system himself, and none of the moneys turned over to this or any other employe could have been used in this way without his sanction and approval even for such a short period as one pay period, namely, two weeks. If the policy for thousands and thousands of dollars that have been paid under this system have been signed by names of persons purporting to have received the money the controller should come forward and apprise the county commissioners of the names of any who received pay without proper warrants. This system, however, has been established and all of these payrolls are now under the direct charge and supervision of the county paymaster, where they rightfully belong.

In conclusion permit us to say that the funds of Allegheny county, bond and tax, have been honestly and faithfully administered.

Further, that this county is financially sound and that there is no entity base surrounding the debt statement as he alleges. The commissioners' borrowing power as of March 31, 1927, was $8,152,555.47. As of the same date the people's was $92,401,100.77.

It is true that public improvements are being delayed by the controller because he says he cannot prepare a debt statement. Some have naturally asked why the commissioners do not take him into court; if they are right. This is not necessary because the question is in court now.

Girls Given Last Chance This Week to Vie in Beauty Queen Tournament

Houston Board of Trade. W. T. Angermyer, president of this active organization, announces in a letter to Leroy Trump, manager of the Stanley Davis-Clark Belmar Theater, that endorsement has been given at a meeting of the officers and directors.

No Delay Now.

The whole-hearted support given the quest manifests the utmost importance there is attached in the minds of the Greater Pittsburgh title be carried by a girl truly representative of the fairest daughters in the district. Girls have realized the necessity of their support in the quest if they are to be represented by a beauty queen in whom they can be proud.

Many girls have waited until the last minute before filing their entry blanks. No further time can be lost. The last opportunity to compete is offered tonight in the following theaters: Hippodrome, North Side; Grandview, Mount Washington; Rialto, West End; Belmar, Etna; Bellevue, Dormont; Garden, North Side; Frederick, East Pittsburgh; and Arcadia, North Side. The last nominations to register at these houses are at noon of the days scheduled for their runs. These dates will be found announced under the heading, "Select Points of Beauty Quest in Nutshell," appearing on this page. This article also contains complete rules and details. All advertisements and notices appear daily in The Chronicle Telegraph.

Awards Available.

The awards are such as to attract the attention of every eligible girl. First the greatest prize in the crown of "Miss Pittsburgh 1927," which carries with it the privilege to vie for the title of "Miss America," and fortunate in all events at the famous Atlantic City national bathing beauty pageant, opening September 6. The beauty queen will be guest of the Atlantic City officials throughout pageant week.

Second, there are the 22 wonderful nine-day vacation trips. This number of lucky contenders will win the titles of their individual theaters and journey to Washington and Atlantic City with all expenses paid in a vacation jaunt they will never forget.

The method of eliminations this year differs from previous quests. Each theater is selecting from its entrants four girls who will have the right to compete before the "Miss Pittsburgh" judges. After the selection of the beauty queen and her alternate each set of four girls will vie for the title of the theater represented. This winner will have an alternate named to act also.

It May Be You.

Many girls have hesitated entering the competition, because their modesty forbid them to believe they would have applause to win. It is generally the case that such girls are the logical contenders for the beauty crown and the title awards. The committee is urging that no girls attempt to judge themselves. It is contended that in fairness to themselves they should permit the capable judges decide. Remember the lucky girl who will become the city's queen may be one yet to register. It might be yourself. Then, too, maybe you could be winner of one of the 22 vacation trips. Read the rules, fill out the entry blank and help your city present to the nation its representative daughter who can become "Miss America."

Send Riot Call for Fight

More than a score of policemen answering roll call in the Franklin Avenue Police station last night were hustled into the patrol wagon and automobiles when a riot call was received from Lathrop and Shetland avenues. When they arrived on the scene the officers learned that a white man and a Negro had been fighting. The participants could not be found.

Compete to Enter Beauty Queen Finals

Weather Conditions.

Low pressure covers the northeast this morning with its center over Eastern Ontario. From this center a trough extends southwestward over the Ohio Valley States, Missouri and Arkansas, to Texas, separating a high in the southeast from an extensive high pressure area over the northwest. This distribution of pressure is causing thundershower conditions over the northeast, including the Great Lakes and the Ohio Valley and Central Plains States, and generally clear skies over the northern Plains States.

The northward high is causing considerably cooler weather over that section, but normal temperatures prevail in the east.

LOWMAN SWORN AS ENFORCEMENT HEAD

Radicals, Wet and Dry, Provide Biggest Problem, He Declares.

Washington, July 1.—(Associated Press.)—Formally taking over the office of Federal prohibition enforcement chief, Secretary Seymour Lowman, of New York, today declared "our greatest job is to hold down the activities of the radical wets and the radical drys."

"Temperance and sobriety are commendable virtues," he said. "We want a sober America."

Mr. Lowman, a former lieutenant governor of New York, was sworn in at the Treasury to succeed Lincoln C. Andrews as assistant secretary in charge of dry law operations.

"I am looking for honest, efficient enforcement of the prohibition law, just the same as other United States laws are enforced,' he said. "Disloyalty will not be tolerated in the prohibition service. I have no policy except an orderly businesslike carrying out of the mandates of Congress."

The Commissioners' Reply.

IN THEIR reply to the charges of inefficiency and extravagance presented by Controller McGovern the Allegheny County Commissioners make the point already suggested in these columns that in his official capacity he has approved the bills and contracts which he so severely criticizes and pertinently call attention to the fact that no county funds can be expended without his O. K. He is the one official who starts the machinery in motion to release funds to meet the county's obligations, and with his veto the operation of this machinery stops. While this rejoinder possesses considerable force it would not in itself supply a complete, comforting answer to the controller's charges, for the reason that failure of duty on the part of one official would not excuse delinquencies by others.

The commissioners proceed, therefore, to deny specifically accusations made by Mr. McGovern, such as those relating to the addition of unnecessary "extras" to contracts for public improvements and the contention of records making it impossible to determine the county's borrowing limit. The commissioners say that no engineer can foresee what additional outlay may be necessary as construction progresses and that in any case the controller possessed the same power of veto over these "extras" as over any other expenditures. As to the necessity for these "extras," opinion may differ, but they were approved by the commissioners, by engineers standing high in their profession and by the joint planning bodies, composed of public-spirited business men. Regarding public debt limitations the commissioners say no mystery exists and that they are in essential agreement with the controller's figures of their own and the people's borrowing power.

One thing is certain: this unseemly squabble is not benefiting the conduct of the county's business nor is it edifying to the public. As The Chronicle Telegraph has said, it is Mr. McGovern's privilege to seek action in the courts if the commissioners are not complying with the law. Their reply seems to place the burden of proof squarely upon his shoulders.

Aviation Insurance.

"WHAT are you doing?" a young man just out of college was asked. "Writing aviation insurance," was the reply. It is certainly an up-to-date occupation and a logical development of the insurance principle, which has now extended to about every known form of risk. Col. Lindbergh, who will be in Pittsburgh next Wednesday, has taken out a $25,000 policy at a premium of a little more than two and one-quarter per cent.

Aircraft is insured as well as the flyer with a maximum limit of $47,500 for damage to a single airplane. The premium for this protection ranges from 2½ to 17½ per cent of the value of the airplane, depending on the uses to which it is to be put and the share of the risk to be borne by the insured. Aviators, like motorists, can insure against the damage they may do to other persons or to their property. A public liability policy for $5,000 may be obtained for $95. Insurance against property damage costs somewhat less. Since nobody is likely to steal an airplane, the cost of theft insurance is low.

As more airplanes dot the sky, will aviation insurance rates go higher or will they be decreased? An increase on account of the danger of collision might seem natural, but some experts think this factor will be offset by the general greater safety of flying, due to improvements in mechanism, while the airmen will acquire more skill with added experience. And speaking of aviation insurance, one department may be devoted to people who, while always sticking to terra firma, think it prudent to insure against damage to their property by airplanes. One plunged through the roof of a residence in a western New York village the other day and thereby stimulated local interest in this kind of insurance.

How Much Shocked?

MORE Americans have been killed by automobiles in the United States during the past eight years than were killed in the World War. The total of the American soldier dead in the war was 120,650. Between January 1, 1919, and December 31, 1926, automobile fatalities numbered 137,017. Since the armistice 3,500,000 persons have been injured in automobile accidents. This compilation is made by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which estimates last year's automobile death toll in this country at 23,000, an increase of 1,000 over the 1925 record.

The general comment on this statement will be "shocking." But, as a people, how much really are we shocked? Are we shocked to the extent of pledging ourselves never to exceed the safe and sane speed limit, whatever the legally permissible rate may be? Are we determined to obey every signal, every official warning as we drive about the city or tour the rural highways? Are we going to use special caution at railway crossings and other dangerous places? Are we going to insure that our brakes are in perfect working order and that our head lights are properly adjusted?

We ought to be shocked by this terrible showing, but shocked into action that will help to reduce the awful toll taken by carelessness and recklessness on the part of both motorists and pedestrians.

Then We're All Loonies.

PROF. THADDEUS L. BOLTON of Temple University, Philadelphia, after subjecting the typical baseball fan to a thorough analysis, is convinced that this specimen of the genus Americanus is not normal. He lacks mental poise. He is suffering from a "hypertrophy." For the benefit of less learned readers Dr. Bolton kindly explains that a hypertrophy in this connection is not something you can have cut out by a surgeon in exchange for a fee that makes you put another mortgage on the house.

A hypertrophy is a growth, but it may be either mental or physical. Those that are physical manifest themselves in the form of corns, bunions, boils, etc. In the case of the baseball fan a mental hypertrophy is a tendency toward over-ardent hysterical devotion to one particular sport.

Unfortunately Dr. Bolton does not say whether or not this ailment is curable. Housewives who have difficulty in keeping dinner warm until the end of a thirteen-inning game would be keenly interested in knowing if any remedy exists for this sad condition. Do fans ever have it only temporarily, or is the disease, once contracted, liable to be permanent? Available statistics suggest that not merely "four out of five have it," but that practically all American citizens are afflicted with baseball hypertrophy at the present time. Nor is it one of those subtle, insidious complaints of which "even your best friend will not tell you." If you have it, you know it, and you will utilize every possible stratagem, even to telling the boss you've got to have an afternoon off to go to the dentist's, in order to satisfy that irresistible craving to see the Pirates perform.

The baseball fan, red-faced, dishevelled, standing up in the bleachers and howling for the blood of the umpire or hurling epithets at the visiting pitcher, may not be mentally well balanced, but at any rate he belongs to the great majority. The insane have been known to complain that they are really sane, but are shut up in asylums because they happen to be in the minority. There may be something to that theory if Prof. Bolton is correct. Certainly there can be no doubt that most male Americans, between nine and ninety, have an ingrowing baseball hypertrophy during six months of the year, and what's more, they really seem to glory in it.

Sir Harry Lauder was honored by Edinburgh, his home town, but was accused of purloining a Scotsman the like of which would be confined in an asylum. So would the stage Yankee, stage Jew or stage Irishman.

It has now been decided the 10 per cent reduction in salaries of movie players will not be made. Perhaps the first announcement was made only as a ruse to get some real tears and save a lot of glycerine.

Lindbergh is such a hero to the youngsters that we are sure they will appreciate his visit almost as much as if it came during the school term and would mean a holiday.

Marie Dowager Queen of Rumania, says she is coming back to America to complete her visit, so those councilmanic spats and high hats may we persure yet.

Canada reports that American tourists spent $205,000,000 there last year. And we'll wager at least 10 per cent was not for anything in a bottle. Yes, even 11 per cent.

G. K. Chesterton thinks politics and religion are the only subjects worth arguing about. That must mean his family gets a new car without a battle.

A British peer married the daughter of a village plumber. We wonder if he can support her in the style to which a plumber's family is accustomed?

CLAIMED THE TELEPHONE

Tomorrow Will Be the Anniversary of the Birth of Elisha Gray, Famous Inventor.

ELISHA GRAY was born on August 2, 1835, in Barnesville, Ohio. In his young manhood he was a blacksmith, a carpenter and a boat builder and later he became a student at Oberlin College, supporting himself, while acquiring an education, by his skill in carpentry. He left college to apply himself to the improvements of electrical apparatus and in 1867 he received his first patent for a self-adjusting telegraph relay. He invented the telegraph switch and enunciator for hotels, a telegraphic repeater, a private telegraph line printer, etc. In 1872 he organized the Western Electric and Manufacturing Company.

In 1876 Gray claimed he had invented the speaking telephone, but, after memorable litigation, that honor was awarded by the courts to Alexander Graham Bell. In 1893 Gray invented a telautograph which so far improved the telephone and telegraph as to transmit the actual handwriting of messages. For many years he was employed in the manufacture of electrical apparatus and he founded the great electrical company at Highland Park, Ill. He organized an electric congress at the World Columbian Exposition and was elected to preside at its sittings. He died in Newtonville, Mass., January 31, 1901.

The Days of Real Sport ... By Briggs

New York Day by Day ... By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, August 1. Diary of a modern Pepys. Came it M Brinker-hoff the limner to say farewell against sailing for Ireland to ehrich and on for a walk, meeting Ballard Macdonald, who complained theatrical managers over the land were pirating his revue skits.

Home and found a box of cocoanut flavored candy Marion Gillespie sent and she said it was non-fattening, but it was not because of that I ate it all at one sitting. Worked a while and photographer with a roller came to take some pictures.

In the evening to Pelham to Roy Howard's wedding anniversary dinner and a merry crowd, including Robert Scripps, Kay Long, Karl Bickel, James R. Quirk, Frank Mason and their wives and drove back to the city after midnight in the brave moonshine. So to bed.

Feminine cigaret smokers—from flapper to dowager—are multiplying so rapidly in New York that a woman who does not smoke becomes as much of a social oddity as one with long hair. Europeans who are used to it find smoking more pronounced in New York than anywhere on the continent.

Under hotel canopies they light up for a few drags while waiting for cars. They smoke at shopping counters, in theater foyers, limousines and walking along the streets. The woman who smokes, as a rule, smokes more than the man. A Madison avenue tobacconist says he has female customers who use two and three packs of twenty cigarets a day.

In a roof cafe the other night twenty-one women were counted in an hour who entered the doors puffing cigarets. Eighty per cent of the patrons of hair dressing parlors smoke while receiving attention. Two millions were spent recently for newspaper ads appealing to women smokers.

Only one restaurant in the city has been able to keep up the ban on women smokers. The proprietor admits it cost him many thousands. Crack trains now feature smoking rooms for women.

Sea Gate, at the lower end of Coney Island, has lost distinction of being called "the most exclusive section in America." Since inception it has been guarded at either end. High gates prevented admittance to all save those to whom residents gave passes or telephoned guards to admit. This exclusion was chiefly to keep out the Coney Island rabble. Residents have their own bathing beaches and it is over the legal right to maintain them that the fuss started. The court held the beaches are not public property. Homes in Sea Gate are palatial, but now the owners admit exclusiveness has been knocked into a cocked hat. As a reporter, I once visited Sea Gate without credentials. A lordly gentleman looked me over and decided I was not the type.

The business of being a head waitress used to consist chiefly in peroxiding the hair canary yellow, acquiring a front gold tooth and informing fresh gentlemen to cut out the applesauce. All that has gone out like a candle. The head waitress today is a hostess. As likely as not she took honors at Vassar. She is schooled in tact and it is her job to make fussy patrons feel the establishment is run solely for them. She is paid a livable wage and must present culture along with dignity to land the job. Thousands of girl graduates are now on the waiting list for jobs. Salaries range from $22 to $38 a week and many receive bonuses.

New dances are as frequent as padlocks along Broadway. The latest to be announced is "The Heebie Jeebie"—a well-known White Way centure, but not hitherto associated with the dance.

Still, dancing these days is mostly twitching and I suppose with the "heebie jeebies" you do twitch a little.

HERALD TRIBUNE—Many Happy Returns.

HENRY FORD deserves congratulations on his sixty-fourth—or fifth (as you please) birthday principally for a reason that your Sancho Pansas of this world will consider bunk. We refer to his good luck in that, having amassed the greatest fortune in the world, he still has a real job ahead of him. Most of us, whether consciously or unconsciously, are striving always toward the goal of material security. The notion in general that "heaven on earth" consists in reaching the point where "you don't have to worry any more." As if boredom were the object of life and adventure something to be shunned. Fortunately for him, he can appreciate his good luck. "I am in better health than I was four years ago," he says, "more fit in every way. You see, I have got a job to do." Some have intellectual resources which on retirement from business can supply them with all the adventure required for health and happiness. But these are really the great exceptions. Most men have had to work too hard to have been able to cultivate intellectual interests apart from their job. They are like Mr. Ford, who says he hasn't had time enough even to read the Dearborn Independent.

AMERICAN—Get a Navy By Building.

WILL the President has had his naval disarmament conference at Geneva. Everyone in the country, from the President down, has been taught a severe lesson in political reality. We have been taught, and told in plain English, that Great Britain, having recovered the mastery of the seas, has no intention of agreeing to let us reach parity with her, if she can help it. She is some 200,000 tons ahead of us in modern cruisers. Instead of disarming down to our level, or halfway down, she says, "catch us if you can." We never had any chance of getting an adequate navy in any way but by building it. Geneva ought to clear the air. There is not going to be much sympathy for Congressmen who do not think their country is as worthy as England of a defense that can keep aggression from our shores and can keep the seas open to our trade in all emergencies.

TIMES—Hopes and Fears at Geneva.

IF THERE is to be a final confession of disagreement at Geneva, it is to be hoped that it will be made with as much brevity and dignity as possible. Recriminations and attempts all around to shift the blame for failure would be much worse than the bare fact of being unable to agree to reduce naval armaments. Friendship and a good understanding are worth more, after all, than any formal treaty. Our delegates may not bring back a signed agreement. But they ought to be able to have in their baggage assurances of respect and of a desire to cooperate with the United States in every possible work of peace and civilization. If speeches must be made, let us hope they will not be filled with the kind of words which have been said to be "half battles." Whichever nation should now engage in such a battle at the Geneva conference would be the certain loser.

Air Travel
By DR. FRANK CRANE.

NOTHING is more creative than imagination. Creation is not so much the work of the hands or even of the brain, speaking of it as a logic machine, as it is of dreams. Col. Lindbergh's exploit has fired the imagination of the world, and his example has already been emulated to a degree, by many.

One of its most practical results is to give impetus to commercial navigation. There will undoubtedly be a large expansion of aerial mail. Air mail not only goes much quicker, but a letter coming by air is much more likely to be read first.

The same German who made the Los Angeles, which successfully sailed over the ocean some years ago, is proposing to make an airship to circumnavigate the globe. The Spanish government is endowing an air company which will carry passengers and freight from Seville to South America.

The air lanes are humming. Col. Lindbergh has given air traffic a new filip. A company has formed to make airships that will do the round trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco and back in one day. When that is completed people can breakfast in Los Angeles, have lunch in San Francisco and return to Los Angeles for supper at six.

The main trouble with long-distance flying is the weight of gasoline the ships have to carry, but the Spanish propose to use a weightless gas and, if that is successful, they will do much to improve traffic by air.

This writer can remember when riding in an automobile was considered quite an exploit. It was a dangerous and exciting business. Travel by air, which now seems out of the question to many, will, in a few years, be a commonplace thing.

FIRST SCHOOL GARDENS

IN AMERICA the school gardens movement had its beginning in the city of Boston in 1891, when Henry L. Clapp, principal of the George Haven Putnam School, established a wild flower garden at his school.

Tales That Are Told
ORIGINAL AND OTHERWISE.

The Better Half.

A councilman in a small town lost his temper during a meeting and remarked that half of his colleagues were fools.

An apology was demanded. He promised to make reparation and caused bills with the following correction to be posted in the town:

"I said that half of the town council are fools. I now declare that half of the town council are not fools."

No Age Limit.

The prospective tenant had inspected the apartment and expressed himself satisfied.

"Have you any children?" asked the janitor.

"I have."

"Then you can't have the rooms."

"But you don't understand. My youngest child is thirty years old, married and keeps house."

"That makes no difference," said the janitor. "I have orders not to let this apartment to anyone with children!"

Out of the Past.

A playwright, lately returned from Hollywood, relates an experience with one of the high officials of a super-company with whom he discussed that burning question, the uplift of the films. The official strode up and down his luxuriously furnished room.

"We are not afraid to spend money profusely to put films on a higher level," he declaimed, with an accent glossed over by much practice. "Our concern with the commercial value of our product is really secondary. For the advancement of our art we are prepared to sacrifice—"

Suddenly he stopped, seized the visitor by the coat lapel and riveted his eyes on that object.

"Phooie!" he exclaimed. "Such a rotten job for a buttonhole, I couldn't believe it!"

Cured Him.

Mrs. Ravenyelp said to her husband: "I have an odd record here, and I want to see if you can guess what it is."

When a weird succession of sounds began to come from the instrument Ravenyelp knitted his brows and tried to identify the sounds.

"It's a saw cutting through a knot," he ventured.

"Guess again," said Mrs. Ravenyelp.

"A trombone in pain."

"No."

"An owl with its toes in a trap."

Mrs. Ravenyelp shook her head.

"Give it up," said Ravenyelp.

"I agree that it's as bad as all you have named," Mrs. Ravenyelp remarked, "and hope it will save a lot of argument in the future."

"But what is it?"

"It's a record I made in the bedroom the other night to prove that you really do snore, and to let you know how awful it sounds."

Overdone.

Puddleton and Mudmere had met to decide supremacy at cricket, and the newly-elected captain of the Puddletonians was defraying the cost of a hot luncheon. This repast was to be served at the close of the first innings, and things looked promising for an early meal until the last two Mudmere batsmen took it into their heads to offer a sturdy resistance to the home bowling.

This fact seemed particularly disquieting to a stout man in a white apron, who stood at the entrance to the pavilion, signaling frantically to the home umpire.

"How's that?" bellowed the bowler at last, as the ball struck a batsman on the head.

"Hout!" came the triumphant reply, without a moment's hesitation.

"Out!" cried the batsman, in amazement.

"Yes," snapped the umpire, "and so's the mutton! I ain't goin' to eat cinders for nobody!"—London Tit-Bits.

Our Evening Story
POLLY DRAKE'S MISTAKE.
By CLARISSA MACKIE.

LANEBORO was said to have a population of 2,500 people, and of this 2,500 five belonged to James Drake's family. Their two sons were abroad, Ronald studying music in Paris, Benjamin at Oxford.

At home was the only daughter, Polly, nineteen, just recovering from a sprained ankle.

It happened on this warm July afternoon, when her mother was resting in her room and her father had motored back to the bank, that Polly, looking distractingly pretty in a filmy pink frock, suddenly heard a step on the veranda, and looking up, discovered the very handsomest young man she had ever seen (owing very formally).

One quick glance at the dust upon his brown shoes, the bundle of black covered books under one arm placed him for Polly Drake. He was a book agent, perhaps a college boy earning his way.

"Yes?" drawled Polly a little snobbishly.

"Ah," he hesitated, and he had the nicest voice, too, "I must apologize for this intrusion, but—"

"Yes?" interrupted Polly. "Is it a book subscription?"

For an instant he stared at her in an amazed way, then he laughed gently and said, "I am afraid not, Miss Drake."

"Magazines—perhaps?" murmured Polly.

"Not even magazines," he said regretfully, and then, all at once, Polly knew all about him, for his pictured face was staring back at her from the page of the newspaper she had picked up.

It was "Little King," the notorious robber, who stood before her. The young man, who had achieved a cheap notoriety through his daring robberies, a society daylight burglar! And here was James Drake's only daughter, with a beautiful pearl necklace around her throat and wearing a diamond ring—Polly gasped, even as she so rapidly placed him. She did not ask him to sit down, but she rose to her slim height, leaning on her crutch. She did not want a disturbance that would wake her mother—she must get rid of this man at once.

"Ah, you have had an accident?" sympathized the young man politely.

Polly nodded, mute with hidden fear.

"Of course you know who I am," he went on. "Mr. Drake suggested that I might come up here and wait until his return." He offered her his card, but Polly waved it away.

"I recognized you," she said curtly.

"Recognized me?" he repeated.

"Yes—your picture is in the paper."

"What paper?" he asked brusquely.

For answer she handed him the newspaper she had been looking at. Quickly he searched the page, and then inquired:

"I do not see my picture here, Miss Drake."

"The picture on the right column," she said steadily, and all the time she was watching his dark face.

"So you believe that I am 'Little King,' the thief?" he asked, and when Polly sat down in her chair he, too, sat down in a deep wicker chair opposite.

"It is hard to believe it," said Polly Drake seriously, looking her loveliest as a sudden color flooded her cheeks, "but I am very sure that—that is, you look just like the picture."

Gravely he leaned over and extended the paper. "Please read the description, Miss Drake," he said coolly, and Polly read it aloud, in a faltering voice.

"About five feet four inches—stout—red hair—mole on chin—brown eyes—oh—I am so sorry. I don't know what I was thinking about—"

He had leaned down and picking up the card she had dropped, presented it with mirthful blue eyes.

"Neale Rutherford!" Polly was on her feet now, holding out both hands, her face radiant. "How can you ever forgive me?"

"Easily," laughed Rutherford. "You see, I stopped in the bank and saw your father, and he said to come up here and get acquainted with you. He asked me to bring this package of books or something, and said it was to go onto his desk in the library."

Now, Polly was busy ringing for cooling drinks, and hoping that he would stay the night there, and he hastily told her that Mr. Drake was bringing up his bag in the car. Then, after refreshments, they slowly walked down to the garden and sat down near the pool and he told Polly about the loss of his father, and the utter smash of his father's business that followed.

"So your father has offered me a vacant position in his bank here, and I am beginning at the bottom," said Neale. "My mother is coming a little later, and I will establish a home for us here. Your father is a wonderful man, Miss Polly."

Polly nodded thoughtfully, and it was just then that Mr. Drake came home and told Polly that Neale was to be their guest for a week or two until he found a house in which to make a home for his mother and sister.

That night Mr. Drake smiled at his wife. "Alice," he said, "Neale Rutherford's boy is here—and I very much fear that he and Polly have fallen in love with each other!"

Mrs. Drake smiled. "That would make me very happy, James, for you know his people are of the very best—and as for money, James, how much did you have when I fell in love with you?"

"Fifteen dollars, I believe," he said, kneeling beside her, and together they listened to their Polly singing an old love song to Neale.

COP, ATTACKED, KILLS ONE IN MOB

Quaker City Officer Slays Son of Sergeant and Shoots Another.

Philadelphia, August 1 (United Press.)—One man was killed and another seriously wounded by a policeman battling a mob of corner loungers near the waterfront late last night.

The dead man was Joseph McGoldrick, aged 19 years. Charles Dunlap, aged 28 years, is in the hospital with a bullet in his abdomen.

The pair were shot by Patrolman Henry Pfeiffer as he defended himself from the mob after he had arrested one of their number. He had been knocked to the pavement and was being kicked and beaten when he drew his revolver and fired.

McGoldrick was a son of Sergt. McGoldrick, of the same police station as Pfeiffer.

LOCAL MEN BOOMED AS BAKER SUCCESSOR

Political Pressure May Bring Selection Before 1929 Legislature Opens.

Harrisburg, August 1 (United Press.)—Pressure of politicians over the state may have Republican state leaders appoint a secretary of the State Senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of W. Harry Baker, during the interim until the convening of the 1929 Legislature.

It had been understood the vacancy would not be filled until the Legislature met, but county leaders and other political factors, who used to carry their political errands to Mr. Baker, are lamenting that they have no one to go to since Baker's death.

Mr. Baker, who worked industriously either at his office here in Harrisburg or at his Philadelphia office, performed much service of a political nature for many scattered over the state.

Senator Horace W. Schantz, of Allentown, president pro tem of the Senate, who was regarded in state politics as a Baker man, will make the appointment, if one is made during the interim. It is understood that he will accept the recommendation of Republican State Chairman W. L. Mellon.

Among those who have been mentioned prominently for the Baker vacancy in recent days are John H. Fertig, assistant director of the legislative reference bureau, and William P. Gallagher, of Wilkes-Barre, former chief clerk of the Senate, who spent a number of years as Mr. Baker's subordinate in the Senate.

Others whose names are being heard are William B. Douglas, former Harrisburg newspaperman, now secretary to United States Senator-elect Vare; James F. McCoy, former Philadelphia newspaperman, who was secretary to Gov. Sproul, and Howard S. Bixby, executive secretary to Gov. Fisher.

The names of A. Nevin Detrich, personnel director of the Fisher administration, and former State Representative Charles J. McBride, of Pittsburgh, are also mentioned.

McBride is regarded as out of the running. He recently announced he did not seek the secretarial post.

DONAHOE CHARGES KLINE HAS PICKED CANDIDATE

P. J. Donahoe, president of the Tenth Ward Republican Club, today issued a statement that Mayor Charles H. Kline has picked his candidate for alderman in the Tenth Ward. He named the candidate as James P. Bailey, stenographer to Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, and said: "Party Mayor Kline cannot elect Supt. of Police Walsh's stenographer against the wishes of the people. Mayor Kline is going to learn just how easily and how badly the independent voter can whip him and his crowd. He is going to learn that the people are still supreme." Mr. Donahoe concluded his statement with a plea for a big registration.

INVALIDES MAY ENTOMB MARSHALS OF FRANCE

Paris—A bill providing that marshals of France and generals having commanded an army during the World War may be interred at the Invalides has been reported favorably by the Army committee of the Chamber and will soon become law.

Two tombs will be reserved for marshals or generals who played a decisive part in the war, immediately under the great central dome, beside the sepulchres of Turenne and Vauban. The others will be buried in the crypt known as the "Governors' Vault." There are 40 officers eligible for this posthumous distinction.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN AT KEATING STATION

An unidentified man, aged about 50 years, was killed instantly this morning by a Baltimore and Ohio train at Keating Station, about a mile and a half west of Braddock. According to William Kimberly, of West Newton, the engineer, the man was standing along the tracks and as the train approached he pitched forward in front of the locomotive. His body was brought into Pittsburgh by the train crew and taken to the morgue. Kimberly said he believed the man committed suicide.

SWISSVALE PLANT DAMAGED $100,000

Fire in the kiln room [illegible] of the Swissvale Graphite Company, Palmer street, Swissvale, caused damage estimated at $100,000 [illegible] Banks and Milkovitch, [illegible] Barnes of the Swissvale fire [illegible] control.

The building was [illegible] with the kiln room in the center. Heavy brick walls separate this section from the remainder of the plant and they were largely responsible for saving the building from destruction.

J. H. Merritts, of 2128 Columbia avenue, Swissvale, night watchman, discovered the blaze shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. There were no workmen in the plant. Merritts, throwing buckets of water on the flames, attempted to extinguish them himself, but heavy smoke forced him to leave, and he called Swissvale firemen. When they arrived the fire had spread all around the kiln and was making headway toward the second floor.

The flames were confined to the kiln room, although other parts of the building were drenched with water. F. L. Armstrong, manager of the plant, was absent from the city and did not arrive at the scene until about 10:30 o'clock. It said that the damage would be repaired immediately and that no kiln would be started again this afternoon.

Probe of Mad Chicken's "Teeth" Is Referred to Those Who Should Know

Remembering that chickens have no teeth, the following item, which appeared this morning on the blotter of the West End Police Station, is respectfully referred to naturalists and poultrymen:

"July 31, A. J. Kroll, of 1214 Oakglen street, reported to this station that his daughter, Barbara, aged 18 months, while playing in the front yard of her home, was bitten on the head and under the right eye by a mad white Leghorn rooster. Motorcycle Patrolman William Seibert investigated and Victor Jones, of 1216 Oakglen street, owner of the rooster, promised to kill same."

The Perfect Sink

Acid-Resisting Enamel plus the "Three 8's"

How pleasant to serve tasty fruit salad or refreshing lemonade, and know that its preparation has not harmed your new "Standard" sink. No fruit or vegetable juices can roughen or discolor it. The enamel is acid-resisting—an exclusive "Standard" development. This new "Standard" sink is especially designed with an 8-inch back to fit under a low window. Four more inches of direct light—new cheerfulness for the whole kitchen.

The sink compartment is 8 inches deep—2 inches more than usual. Your tallest pitcher goes under the swinging-spout faucet. Your deepest pan will be below the rim of the sink.

The new swinging-spout faucet is a graceful octagonal design with platinum-like beauty. It can be cleaned easily with a damp cloth. The sanitary attached garbage container with removable aluminum receptacle can be pushed back under the sink on its folding bracket.

Come in to see this modern sink. It is made in three styles and seven sizes. The trademark "Standard A R," identifying Acid-Resisting Enamel, is impressed in every "Three 8's" sink. Write for interesting booklet.

A beautifully designed faucet with Platinum-like finish of Chromard. It cannot tarnish or corrode. With casual care it will always look as bright as new.

The "THREE 8's" SINK

8 inch low back fits snugly under a deep window.

8 inch deep sink is roomier and prevents overflow splashes.

8 inch deep front gives the whole sink a new beauty.

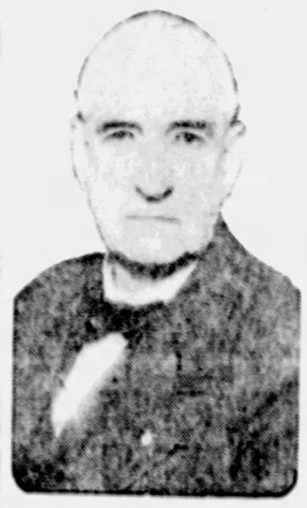
ARMSTRONG OUT FOR RE-ELECTION

County Commissioner Cites Record in Announcing Candidacy.

POINTS TO ACHIEVEMENTS



JOSEPH G. ARMSTRONG.

Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board of County Commissioners, yesterday announced his candidacy for re-election. He issued a formal statement citing his record and the achievements of the administration during his term in office. The statement follows:

"Having to place my name upon the ballot for county commissioner in the primaries prompts me to review briefly the duties of the office and especially our work for re-election, he should communicate to the voters the reasons which prompted him and the policies he will pursue if chosen by the people to carry on their work.

"People Employers."

"People in a system of government such as ours a public official is nothing more than a public servant a candidate occupies the same relative position as an applicant for employment. The people being the employers must weigh the applicable their qualifications especially achievements in the name of another there their industry and integrity, and choose just as a private employer does, the one they believe will do the best job for them and render the greatest return in service for the salary paid.

Road Program.

"In the office of county commissioner I have served you for the past three and one-half years. Previously to that, usually by a mandate from you, I have been privileged to occupy the most important positions in our local government. On each occasion the voters have expressed their satisfaction of my work in one office by placing me in another. This should be considered as a recommendation of my fitness and evidence that I have been faithful and industrious in the performance of those duties assigned to me. Nearly all of the time I have spent in public life has been in elective offices. Always I have been able to come back to the people and be retained in their employ.

"It is on such a record, together with whatever I have accomplished in my present position, that I submit my name now and base any claims I have to be kept in your service.

"As chairman of this board, with the co-operation of my colleagues, the late Addison C. Gumbert and James Houlahen, I was able to conceive and initiate and, with the support of the people, finance the most comprehensive improvement program ever undertaken by this county. With the help of my present colleagues, Messrs. E. V. Babcock and James Houlahen, I have been able to carry these projects nearly to the point of completion.

"Most of these improvements are obvious to anyone who travels about the county. But it is only fair to those to whom they are not to give a concise account of our stewardship.

"We have completed or have under construction 72 bridges. We have constructed approximately 300 miles of roads. We have placed and kept in A-1 condition all of the other road mileage of Allegheny county. These roads and these bridges have provided thoroughfares of modern type that enable our people to move in ease and comfort in every direction across the county—east, west, north or south. Innumerable other improvements and changes have been instituted, and before the campaign is concluded we will place before the voters a detailed description of the work which was undertaken and completed.

"To do all of this, of course has entailed the expenditure of immense sums of money. Simple indeed would be the mind of a man who would imagine that such work could be done except at extraordinary expense. But the people themselves are familiar with this phase of it as they themselves passed upon these projects and provided the finances out of the funds over which they and they alone have control. Those, therefore, who criticise the large outlays really criticise the people themselves.

"It must be emphasized that the amount of money expended is not a test as to whether there has been economy or waste. The test is not how much but how well and what has been obtained and provided for the people in return. As applied to local government what is known as taxation is a misnomer. It is in fact the cost of the service which the people themselves demand their local government shall render unto them. And

Qualification Based on Record

"My qualifications, including experience, integrity and aptness for the work at hand are covered by the record of past performance to which I have referred.

"My reasons for submitting my name for further retention in your employ are:

"First that I may finish the job you gave me to do believing, as I always have, and as I think you will, in Lincoln's wisdom that this is better than to swap horses crossing the stream.

"Second, that with your approval, and with your approval alone, other projects will be taken up and consummated so that this great State of Allegheny may hold her traditional place among the progressive, thriving, thrifty communities of our nation.

50-50 SPLIT ASKED BY MRS. KENNEDY

Evangelist's Mother Says She Will Settle Differences on No Other Basis.

ARRANGE FOR CONFERENCE

Los Angeles, August 1.—(Associated Press.)—The principal cause of trouble between Aimee Semple McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, was unmasked today as the two warring leaders of Angelus Temple vowed their willingness to meet once more and discuss the elder woman's demands for a 50-50 split of the property which they have accumulated since starting their big religious enterprise. The temple often is referred to as a million dollar concern.

Plans for the conference were announced last night after Mrs. Kennedy, who recently was ordered removed as business manager of the church, had declared she would consider no settlement except an equal division of the financial receipts of the institution. The evangelist then declared her willingness to meet Mrs. Kennedy in an effort to settle the feud which has rocked Angelus Temple.

Watermelon Barred.

McPherson said she was willing to bar from the meeting her two committee watermelon and ade, all three of which have incurred the displeasure of Mrs. Kennedy. The church committee has been recognized by the [illegible] matter. The refreshments, she said, had broken up previous conferences.

"I can't talk to her," Mrs. Kennedy complained to reporters. "Every time I try to talk to her at a conference she just eats watermelon and drinks lemonade."

Realty Involved.

Neither Angelus Temple's huge building overlooking the Los Angeles Park nor the adjoining magnificent structure which houses the Bible school, are involved in Mrs. Kennedy's settlement terms. She listed, however, as part of the fortune which she would insist on her daughter dividing property surrounding the temple. This property she said, includes $6,000 worth purchased during the last year.

BUSY SOCIAL ROUND CLAIMS ROYAL PARTY

Golf, Receptions and Dinners Scheduled for Princes and Premier.

Montreal, Quebec, August 1.—(Associated Press.)—Lured by an all-day cruise from Quebec to Montreal, the Prince of Wales, Prince George and Prime Minister Baldwin plunged into a program today calling for almost continuous movement.

Rounds of golf at the Laval-sur-le-Lac Club bracketed the Prince of Wales and Prince George while Premier Baldwin hastened from the official welcome to the princes and prime minister at city hall to address the Canadian Club.

In the late afternoon all the distinguished visitors will be assembled again at a garden party at the home of Senator and Mrs. W. L. McDougald and tonight a dinner will be given by E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the guests going from the dinner to a special train waiting to take them to Ottawa tomorrow morning.

Montreal gave a demonstrative welcome to the princes and premier last night when they were received by Mayor Mederic Martin, Brig. Gen. W. B. M. King, commanding the military district and Senator W. L. MacDougald, president of the General Harbor Commission.

SERBIANS HOLDING PICNIC AT KENNYWOOD

Today is Serbian day at Kennywood Park. With the many interesting amusements such as the whip, pigmin, jack rabbit, tumble bug, ferris wheel, cathedral of the Carousel the picnickers are assured of an enjoyable day. The committee in charge has arranged an interesting program. There is dancing in the afternoon and evening and music for the dancers will be furnished by Bob McGowan's orchestra.

FLAMING YACHT SAILS DOWN NEW YORK BAY

New York, August 1.—With not a soul aboard, the 50-foot yacht Jackmar sailed down New York Bay last night, her hull a mass of flames, until she was captured and the fire extinguished by the fire boat William J. Gaynor.

When the boat had been towed to fireboat headquarters at Thirty-seventh street, Capt. John R. Kelly received a telephone call that explained partly the mystery of the blazing craft's spectacular voyage.

A man who gave his name as Gunner Ivesen, and who said he was caretaker of the yacht, declared he had been running the gas-propelled yacht down the bay when it collided with another ship, whose identity he did not reveal in his excitement, and that the crash started fire in the Jackmar's engine room. He rowed ashore in a lifeboat.

Ivesen did not give the yacht's ownership and it is not listed in the registry.

Meyer Jonasson Employes Enjoy Picnic

Two hundred and fifty employes of the Meyer Jonasson & Co. and their families attended the store's annual picnic Saturday at Cascade Park, New Castle. Features of the day's program were running races, a baseball game and a dance.

The picnickers were carried to and from the park in a special Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train, which left Pittsburgh at 9:30 a. m. and returned about midnight. The committee on arrangements was composed of D. L. Bond, chairman; William Harris, David Gold, Miss Marie Brown, C. L. Ruhl, J. Blum and Miss Cora Belle Campbell.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians and become a household word among mothers.

ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children—would think of giving to her baby a remedy that—herself, without consulting a physician.

Always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

BETTY

THE LOVE STORY SUPREME OF THE PRESENT DAY

By FAITH BALDWIN

COPYRIGHTED 1927 BY THOMPSON FEATURES SERVICE, INC.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pretty black-haired Betty Warren goes on a Saturday night pleasure trip to Coney Island with some friends, including Bob Stevenson whom she has just met. Betty and Bob are attracted to each other from the first and exchange confidences. Bob is an automobile mechanic and lives with an invalid mother. Betty lives with her mother and two sisters in Brooklyn and works as a typist in New York City. The girl and the young man leave before the others so that they can enjoy each other's company on the trip home from Coney Island. As the next day is a Sunday the whole Warren family assembles for dinner. Helen, the 16-year-old beauty of the family; Gladys, the artistic dreamer, Mrs. Warren, motherly and impractical, and finally, Betty's married sister, Virginia, with her little boy, Junior, and her husband, Jim, who was gassed in the war. Virginia is despondent about her husband's health. Virginia advises Betty to marry for money. Betty is acquainted with a wealthy author, Anson Lorrimer, and Virginia urges her to try to attract him. Bob calls on Betty and takes her for an automobile ride. The next day Lorrimer visits Betty's office with some typing he wants her to do. Betty is oblivious of his admiration. Bob asks Betty to marry him, and she accepts. They plan to live with Betty's mother. Bob's mother is to go to live with her sister. Betty's brother-in-law becomes so ill that he must be sent to a western hospital. To Betty it means an indefinite postponement of her marriage to Bob. Virginia and her little boy come to live at Betty's home. Worn out and discouraged, Betty gets a severe attack of grippe. When she feels well enough she forces herself to go back to work. In the evening Lorrimer takes her home in his machine. Betty and Bob argue about her returning to work so soon. Betty tells Bob that she does not think she should see him so often. He is very angry when he leaves her home. Lorrimer invites Betty out to lunch and she accepts. She enjoys herself while with him and promises to go with him some time again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Lorrimer, intuitive, as always when his relations to women were concerned, immediately sensed the change in her. He felt, somehow, that confidences were trembling on her lips and that a very little care and cleverness on his part would cause her to open her mind and heart to him. And he knew that when a woman begins to confide in a man who has been a stranger to her a little time before, it is a step in the right—or wrong direction, whichever way you happen to look at it.

"It was good of you to come," he told her, smiling, "and I am really very grateful. If I told you how grateful, how appreciative, you would at once jump to the entirely false conclusion that I was trying to flatter you—and nothing is further from my mind."

Betty laughed at and with him. She was thinking how pleasant his voice was with its slight inflection that was part Park avenue, part a brief stay at Harvard and part much ground covered in Europe. She was thinking, too, that his long, carefully rounded sentences were pleasant to the ear. When she had first known him she had thought them affected "speech making." Now she found herself comparing his manner of talking to that of the other men she knew. Even to Bob, whose grammar was sometimes careless, who was slangy, who was abrupt in speech and often painfully inarticulate. Bob's voice, of course, was rather wonderful—her heart turned over in her with a stab of pain. Bob's voice, which had been silent for her for so long.

She dragged her errant thoughts back to Lorrimer. Yes, she liked his way of speaking, of expressing himself. He rarely used slang, and when he did the effect was that of premeditation; it fell rather quaintly upon the ear, almost as if he phrased something in a foreign language.

Lorrimer went on, quietly, over the Blue Points.

"No—I never flatter women. They have such aptitude for flattering themselves."

Betty laughed outright.

"You think I am cynical," he asked her, with a very decided twinkle in his hazel eyes, "but I assure you that the very few times I have ever descended to base flattery, to pretty speech-making, I have regretted it. It takes a woman to read between the lines, and she always reads into everything a whole novel that is really never there."

"You're rather hard on us," objected Betty, demurely, but not at all displeased. She knew well enough that when a man made such sweeping statements about women in general he was not excluding one woman in particular.

"I'm generalizing—a very sad thing to do. As for you—one of the things I like so much about you, Betty Warren—and I assure you that I like a great many things—is that you are not forever looking for personalities. I think that you could be to a man that very rare thing—a good friend, a good comrade."

Oh, and he never flattered!

But Betty was trapped as have been many other women before her. Such a nice, home-like harmless looking trap with Walk-in written all over it and Welcome on the mat and Friendship Mottos from the posts on the walls!

"I think," she said, very soberly, "that I could be—"

Lorrimer sighed.

"I wonder—if you would be that to me," he asked and added with a miraculous simplicity, "I am very lonely—Betty."

The use of her Christian name brought a little flush to her cheeks. But after all, why not? It was perfectly natural, wasn't it? She had accepted his hospitality, loved his flowers, ridden in his car. And every one used Christian names nowadays.

"Lonely"—she asked him, incredulously, "Lonely? You?"

"Oh, I knew you'd not believe me," he answered, "but it is true, nevertheless—I know a great many people—that is to say I know what they look like, how their voices sound, what, in some cases, their natures appear to be on the surface. But really knowing? Not at all. And I can count my real friends on the fingers of my hand."

He was perfectly right in that last statement, although he didn't know it, and would never have admitted it had he known.

Betty was feeling very sorry for him. How much alike they were after all, the rich, talented, cultured man and the little typist!

"Shall we," he asked, stretching out his long, nervous hand and laying it on the table palm up, "shall we—swear an eternal friendship?"

She put her own hand into his without a moment's thought. Why not? Not that it was necessary to swear to what seemed to her an accomplished fact.

The little ceremony over, they each sat back and smiled at one another without embarrassment.

"Suppose I ask you to give me a proof of that friendship?"

"What do you mean?" she inquired.

"How cautious. You won't promise first—without knowing?" His hazel eyes were laughing now.

"Of course," cried Betty, eager to live up to her bargain and glad to be generous to this so generous friend.

And now the hazel eyes were narrowing a little.

"Then if you really mean it—you will tell me what has been troubling you so much lately. Oh, don't frown and shake your head. By the way, your hat is entirely charming'—you see I've been watching you for a long time. There was a time when you were very happy—I could see that—and then a time when you were troubled. Won't you tell me why?"

The confidence boiled over.

"I—I've told you, really," she said hesitatingly, "about the family—my two younger sisters and the married one, Virginia, whose husband is so ill—I told you he had to go West and she came home to live. I've been troubled because of that—because of all her worry and also the extra expense and everything."

"I see. And all the burden falls on you?"

"In a way—" she answered and added quickly, "I don't want you to think I'm complaining—"

"I don't. I think my own thoughts—thoughts about a very brave and patient little girl," he answered low.

She was in a mood where admiration of that particular kind meant a great deal to her. Bob did not think her a "brave and patient little girl." He thought her a selfish, uncaring woman who used her family as an excuse to hurt him, to deny him what he wanted. He thought her hard and cold and loveless. Hadn't he said so—in almost so many words. He didn't understand—and she loved him. Anson Lorrimer understood—and she did not love him. But she was very grateful to him nevertheless.

By clever questions, thrown out quite casually with no affect of prying or cross-examination, Lorrimer managed to learn a good deal more. Just how the family stood financially . . . . how little Mrs. Warren's annuity amounted to . . . . how impractical Mrs. Warren herself . . . . and what excessively minor proportion of the income was donated by Gladys and Virginia . . . . and finally, how Betty was in debt to the lawyer.

LAUDER PROSTRATED BY DEATH OF WIFE

Scotch Comedian Grief-Stricken; Funeral Wednesday at Argyll.

Dunoon, Scotland, August 1.—(Associated Press.)—Sir Harry Lauder, who has lightened the hearts of hundreds of thousands throughout the English-speaking world by his clever drolleries, was prostrated with grief today over the sudden loss of his devoted and constant companion for 37 years. There were even reports that he has resolved never to appear on the stage again, and was so crushed with grief that it is not likely he will do it for publication for some time.

Less than a fortnight ago Lady Lauder went to a nursing home in Glasgow for an internal operation. She bore the ordeal well and was progressing satisfactorily towards recovery, when early yesterday morning her heart failed and she died.

Lady Lauder was 58 years of age, and both her parents are living. The funeral will be at Inveroran, Argyll, Wednesday.

DEPUTY SHERIFF SLAIN AT PRAYER MEETING

Athens, Tenn., August 1.—Word was received here today of the assassination of John H. Ward, aged 65 years, a deputy sheriff of McMinn county, late Saturday night, while he was attending prayer meeting at Brushy Creek schoolhouse, 12 miles southwest of Athens. A charge of buckshot was fired through a window at close range, tearing away the left side of Ward's neck. He was a brother of R. F. Ward, a former state representative. The identity of the murderer remains a mystery today.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME; INCENDIARY BLAMED

A fire of possible incendiary origin partially destroyed the home of Mrs. Sarah Wheatholder at 248 Sunnyside avenue, Carrick, and caused damage estimated at $3,500 yesterday. According to Battalion Chief Raul Klein, an overturned can believed to have contained kerosene was found in a second floor bedroom where the fire originated. The house was deserted, the Wheatholder family being away. Firemen experienced difficulty when it was necessary to stretch hose for a quarter-mile to reach the nearest hydrant. Police were endeavoring to locate the Wheatholder family.

SAFE!

¶ When the umpire cries out "SAFE," a sigh of relief goes through the stands. There is an even greater feeling of relief, when a person knows that his own immediate safety is assured.

¶ By far the safest place on the city streets is on the street car. The National fatality rate for street car riders in 1926 averaged one out of every 8,422,460. Pittsburgh's list showed one fatality out of every hundred million.

¶ Compare this with figures of the average railroad and automobile fatalities for 1926. One out of every 6,313,800 railroad passengers lost his life. More than fifteen automobile passengers out of every hundred thousand lost their lives in this country during 1926.

¶ In the maelstrom of moving vehicles, at present menacing our cities, the safe haven of refuge is in the street car.

50 THEATER TICKETS AWARDED FREE DAILY

Two tickets to the Davis Theater, good for any performance except Saturdays and holidays, are awarded daily to the 25 persons, each of whom submits one question adjudged among the 25 best sent in that day. All questions, with their answers, must be sent to the "What Do You Know?" Editor of the Tele.

* * *

More than one question may be submitted, but each award is based ON ONLY ONE QUESTION FROM EACH PERSON.

Write on one side of the paper and give name and address.

Tickets are mailed each day.

* * *

The awarding of a ticket for a question and answer does not mean they will be printed, but each day many of them are selected for publication.

THEATER TICKETS AWARDED TODAY

The following were awarded two tickets each to the Davis Theater, home of the finest Keith vaudeville and photoplays, as a result of questions submitted to the WHAT DO YOU KNOW? editor of The Tele Saturday:

M. P. Aland, 112 Marlow st.
Marguerite Kerr, Carnegie.
Marie C. Gutknecht, Mt. Troy road.
Harry Martin, Etna.
Janet N. Plummer, Pittsburgh.
Beatrice Mallinger, 1827 Locust st.
Mrs. A. J. Belack, 3246 Richardson ave.

Anna Herman, 809 Berkshire ave.
Corinne E. Kim, 142 Kennedy ave.
Sarah Graf, Bellevue.
Mrs. D. L. Ford, 343 Sylvania ave.

(In making the awards there are many things to be considered beside the authenticity of the answer and the popularity of the question. A committee of judges passes on all contributions and while their decisions are not always infallible, they are based on their best judgment as to what selections best fulfill the established requirements. "To err is human," so if your question and answer fail to bring a reward today, think up another. It may be among tomorrow's winners.)

Arrangements for the daily award of 25 sets of tickets were made through the Stanley Company of America, which has direction of the Davis Theater.

Lemon Juice is Best to Whiten Skin

Prepare It Yourself at Home

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark or rough.—Advertisement.

All former standards of motor car value fell when the new Buick for 1928 swept into view.

All previous conceptions of beauty . . . smartness . . . luxury and comfort were discarded as people thrilled at Buick's graceful, youthful, low-swung bodies and Buick's harmonized interiors, as exquisite as the finest drawing rooms.

All previous performance records faded into insignificance before Buick's brilliant abilities—mighty power, performance vibrationless beyond belief and get-away like an arrow from a bow.

Here are listed all 16 Buick models for 1928, with their prices, so that you may see for yourself how little Buick costs, when you consider how much Buick gives.

BUCS STRIVE TO AVERT DROP FROM LEAD

ALDRIDGE TO FACE SMITH IN SECOND CLASH OF SERIES

Defeat for Freebooters and Victory for Cubs to Send Bruins Into First Place of National League Pennant Fight.

CLYDE BARNHART SENT BACK TO LEFT AS MANAGER BUSH BENCHES CUYLER

Threatened with a drop from first place unless they turned the tables on the Boston Braves this afternoon the Pittsburgh Pirates met the Braves at Forbes Field this afternoon bent on getting revenge for the defeat suffered in the opening game Saturday.

While the Pirates were not scheduled to play yesterday, the Cubs defeated the Phillies to cut the margin of the Corsairs' lead to a half game. A victory for the Bruins today and a defeat for the Buccos will send the Cubs into first place by a margin of a half game.

In an effort to prevent the Pirates from dropping in the senior league pennant race, Manager Donie Bush announced today that Vic Aldridge, who has won his last five games, will ascend the mound against the Beaneaters.

Aldridge has had his four days of rest and should be in fine shape for the second encounter with the Beaneaters at Forbes Field this afternoon. Bob Smith, likewise a right-hander, will likely oppose the Pirate star on the hill today.

Manager Bush announced a change in his lineup this morning, sending Clyde Barnhart back to left field and benching Kiki Cuyler. Bush believes this change will improve the Pirates' attack.

The Pirates returned home from Massillon, O., today after making a useless trip to the Buckeye city for an exhibition game. The Pirates were unable to go through the contest because of rain.

The three-game series with the Beaneaters will come to a close tomorrow with a single game.

Following tomorrow's battle the Pirates will entertain the Phillies in four games including a double-header on Thursday. This bargain bill was originally scheduled for Wednesday, but owing to the visit of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, transatlantic flyer, to Pittsburgh, the dates were changed. Wednesday's game will start at 4:15 instead of 3:30 to allow the fans to witness the Lindbergh reception.

Walter Johnson Completes 20 Years as Nat Pitcher

Washington, August 1.—(A. P.)—When the sun sets this evening Walter Johnson will have rounded out a fifth of a century as a major league pitcher—and he has served only one club, the Washington Senators.

Twenty years ago tomorrow the "old master," as the fans call him, toed the mound for his first start in the big show. He pitched seven innings against Detroit and was relieved in the eighth by long Tom Hughes with the score 2 to 1 against him after he had given the Tigers six hits. Detroit subsequently won, 3 to 2.

Tomorrow Johnson will face the Tigers again, but in a setting far different from that of 20 years ago. It will be "Johnson Day" and the hurler, instead of being a raw recruit looking hopefully into the future, will gaze backward over a career bulging with achievements that have made him an idol not only in the capital and in other major league cities, but on every sandlot where baseball is played.

Gentleman on Field.

Of the many records he has piled up the one that is most unique has perhaps done most to endear him to the game's followers. It mirrors the man. Not once in his long career has he had a serious argument with an umpire or been ordered from the field or bench. When the decisions go the other way the "old master" is a good loser.

A number of Johnson's records are due to the fact that he has stayed in the game so much longer than the average pitcher, but there are many more to which this fact has no relation.

In 1920 he pitched a no-hit game against the Red Sox. For 12 seasons he led the American League pitchers in number of strikeouts. For six seasons he achieved the greatest number of victories and in two years had the lowest earned run mark. In 1908 he won three successive games from the Yankees. In 1919 he fanned three Philadelphia pinch hitters in a row and in 1913 he pitched 56 consecutive scoreless innings.

Johnson's first world series opportunity came in 1924 after he had been pitching 17 years. Then, after apparently having failed, he faced the Giants as a relief pitcher in the deciding game of the series and was credited with the victory that gave Washington its first world championship.

The twentieth year testimonial did not spring up over night. As far back as last winter, a group of fans called on President Griffith, of the Senators, to ask that he use his influence toward having the schedule call for a home date tomorrow that "Johnson Day" might be staged.

Griffith was successful not only in arranging for the home game, but also in bringing the Detroit team, against whom Johnson made his debut, here for the anniversary.

The league magnates were spontaneous with their co-operation. When the subject was brought to Ban Johnson's attention, he immediately expressed a desire that the league itself take part in the testimonial.

American League club owners recently voted Johnson the first "distinguished service medal" ever awarded a player, and Commissioner Landis is to come from Chicago to make the presentation.

NEW YORK'S BLEAT

IF THE colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin then the metropolis of the country, New York, and the small villages are of the same flesh and blood, too, in spite of New York's grand air of tolerant patroniging of lesser cities. If proof were needed it is to be had with the excited and hysterical clamor in New York over the horrible possibility that Tex Rickard will again desert New York to pitch his heavyweight titular tent this time in Chicago. The great Manhattan dailies are making fervent pleas to Rickard not to desert the boxing fans who have supported Rickard in less magnificent and stirring spectacles. This plea, having failed to stir the stony-hearted Rickard, the air in Gotham is surcharged with dark words threatening retaliation, revenge, if Chicago is to be favored over New York in the staging of the Tunney-Dempsey bout.

Such hysterics might be overlooked in lesser cities, where the provincial note is to be expected, but coming from Manhattan where so many of the boys have eyesight which fails them in "seeing" anything beyond the confines of Manhattan the effect is startling to say the least. All the pleas issued to Rickard to please come back to New York are issued in the name of the fans, although, possibly, the fans, after having grown a little cold in a few recent bouts, care much less about the matter than the excited petitioners allege.

Rickard is going to promote in Chicago because he fears the east, for awhile, has had enough of the big bouts. He sees the mid-west section as fresh soil for the big crop of fans necessary to the staging of a titular bout and he would be worse than foolish if he took a chance in New York, when a certainty awaits him in the Windy City. It is small talk that threatens reprisals against Rickard, in the way of legislative price slashing in New York for future bouts, and talk unworthy of New York's metropolitanism. Rickard should have the privilege of moving thither and yon with his wares without being molested by a provincial cry to: "Please favor us—please don't forget the fight fans of New York."

Broadway, a story says, is willing to bet that Rickard will not desert New York. Broadway would just lose again, for as long ago as a month, Rickard had all but clinched the Chicago deal, although wisely leaving the matter in the air, publicly, to help the necessary advertising, called, sometimes, the ballyhoo.

But it all gives lesser cities a smile to see how blase Manhattan can get so worked up about an event of this kind. The colonel's lady is screaming as loudly as Judy O'Grady.

PIRATES

A GOOD team like the Pirates goes into disgrace when it bows as it bowed Saturday to the Braves. It was not the strength of the Braves that caused the downfall of the Pirates Saturday, but the ineptness of the Pirates, for even a blind man can see that between the clubs there is nothing to represent a sane comparison of strength. Aside from loose play in the infield, and an attitude generally which shows no sign of pennant fires burning in their breasts, the Pirates are suffering from a certain staleness. This offers a problem to Donie Bush, the Pirate manager, who both by precept and example has worked strenuously to keep some of the lagging men keyed up. A drastic shift, if workable, might be the thing to bring a ruddier complexion to the pale Pirates. Certainly a change can bring nothing worse than the low spirits evidenced by the Corsairs in their bowing to the lowly Braves on Saturday.

That the Pirates' spirit should sag just now when prospects, physically, are so bright is a disappointment. With four pitchers, Kremer, Meadows, Hill and Aldridge, ready for regular turns, to assist the best hitting team in the league, Corsair chances are bright but for a bad mental attitude and but for bad fielding. Teams have lost flags through lack of good pitching and through lack of good hitting, but the Pirates, if they begin to sag now, will gain the doubtful distinction of being the first to lose because of erratic fielding and a low mental frame of mind.

Injuries and illness to such fellows as Wright and Grantham are partly responsible for the jaded spirit, but even this circumstance is no reason why the club now fitted out with pitchers and always owning fine batting should look inferior to really bad ball clubs.

Fight and aggressiveness have left the club temporarily; the spirit to surmount great obstacles is dormant; ambition seems to have fled. To revive and recreate these lost ingredients of victory offers to Donie Bush his most severe test.

MEADOWS

HAZEN CUYLER dropped a liner Saturday and Lee Meadows did not drop, but rather hurled his glove to the ground. Meadows' gesture was taken to mean he was angry at Cuyler. This interpretation could come only from those who do not know Meadows. Meadows may get angry at fellow-players sometimes, but he is intelligent enough to keep it a secret in his own breast, because, as a veteran campaigner, he knows sometimes his own work may bring poignant disappointment to fellow-players. Meadows never has been temperamental. He could not have survived his awful experience in Philadelphia if of a disposition to allow misplays to bother his pitching. He has been noted, always, as a philosophical fellow who despite bad breaks does his best. If he ever lets up it is not because of bad plays behind him. So the interpretation that in throwing his glove to the ground he was registering protest against Cuyler was wrong. The man who angered Meadows was a fellow known as Meadows because he had pitched the wrong kind of a ball to Andy High who socked it to left field. Some of the fans deplored Meadows' show of peevishness but at least once in a season a pitcher should be allowed the luxury of showing his disgust over his own ineptness. With a big lead, Meadows may be tempted to ease up, and later see himself knocked out, but in a tight game no pitcher works more carefully and more intelligently. In a tight game he bears down and can even smile over jams his co-workers get him into. The fellow in whom he can stand but little nonsense is a fellow named Meadows.

Probably on Saturday Lee wanted to punch himself right on the nose and the only thing that prevented this was the fact that he wears glasses. When a boy Lee promised himself that he would never strike a fellow who wears glasses and graciously included himself in this compact.

HEAVENS, THE 'KERCHIEF AGAIN

W. J. M. writes in to say this column had no right to revive the tennis-kerchief controversy. But the column didn't revive it. An advocate of the handkerchief started it and an answer was given him and there I was content to let the matter rest. But W. J. M., after bitterly deploring the revival of an old quarrel, then adds fuel to the flame he decries by advancing arguments favoring the wearing of the 'kerchief in tennis. He says that the comparison made between perspiring pitchers, who wear glasses, yet scorn the heroic 'kerchief, and tennis players who wear glasses and find the 'kerchief necessary is not sound because the action in tennis and baseball is so different. But I contend that a pitcher needs his best vision just as much as does the tennis player and that nature is not so discriminating as to foul the tennis player's vision with a drop of perspiration while carefully seeing to it that the baseball pitcher is not bothered in this fashion.

Tennis men at first said the 'kerchief was necessary because a player perspired. I pointed out other athletes perspired and got along without it. Next, tennis men argued that those who wore glasses in playing tennis certainly needed a 'kerchief. I then

Annual Seabright Net Tourney Opens Today

New York, August 1.—(A. P.)—One of the landmarks of American tennis, the annual invitation tournament of the Seabright, N. J., Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, starts today with the most impressive entry list in its history. Outstanding players of the United States will compete through the week's play, the influx of European stars who have arrived for the Wightman Cup matches, the international Davis Cup series and the national singles championship.

One of the few absentees among the "big guns" will be "Little Bill" Johnston, who is foregoing play for further rest. Virtually every other outstanding star of the United States, men and women, will be represented.

A notable field, comprising the best young players in the country, will start away today at the West Side Tennis Club in New York, where the national junior tennis championships are to be conducted. Frank Shields and Julius Seligson, both of New York, are among the formidable contenders for the crown now held by Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal.

VIRGIL BARNES

Virgil Barnes, Giant's righthander, appears to have the "Indian sign" on the St. Louis Cardinals this season.

Barnes scored his third straight victory over the world's champions yesterday without losing a game to them.

He defeated them on June 16, 10 to 5; on July 10, 5 to 0, and on July 31, 7 to 4.

* * *

Rogers Hornsby, Giants' second baseman, yesterday batted safely in his twelfth straight game at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals.

During this batting stretch Hornsby has connected for 21 hits, including three doubles, two triples and a home run, in 48 trips to the plate for an average of .438.

Root has defeated the Phils in three out of the four games he has faced them so far this season.

LUQUE WINS

Adolpho Luque, Cuban righthander of the Cincinnati Reds, not only defeated the Robins for the third straight time without the loss of a game yesterday, but won his third straight contest in as many games.

Luque has gone the distance in each of his three appearances against the Robins, winning on June 16, 10 to 1; on July 21 in 13 innings, 2 to 1, and yesterday, 6 to 2.

Although defeated in the first game of yesterday's dual bill with the Reds, the Dodgers came back in the second to snap Red Lucas' winning streak of six in a row.

Lucas had defeated Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Brooklyn and St. Louis in their order ere he fell before the Robins in 10 innings yesterday, 3 to 2.

Lucas has lost seven games so far this year and four of them were inflicted by a margin of a single run. Two of the games were 2 to 1 affairs, one was a 3 to 2 and the other a 6 to 5 engagement.

WAITE HOYT

Waite Hoyt, Yankee righthander, scored his third shutout victory of the year Saturday when he blanked the Indians, 5 to 0.

His first shutout was registered at the expense of the White Sox on May 8, 9 to 0, and his second on May 27 at the expense of the Senators, 5 to 0.

Jess Petty was stopped by Adolpho Luque and the Reds yesterday after winning four straight games.

Petty had defeated the Giants twice and the Cards and Cubs each once before he encountered the Reds in Cincinnati yesterday.

PUBLIC LINKS TOURNEY OPENS TODAY

LOCAL GOLF STARS TO MAKE BID FOR COVETED LAURELS

Qualifying Round Marks Inaugural of Annual Classic Over Ridgewood Course in Cleveland—Carl Kauffman Picked Among Favorites.

THIRTY ONE CITIES TO COMPETE; BOLSTEAD DEFENDS HIS HONORS

CLEVELAND, August 1.—Pittsburgh's team of six golfers, representing the 4,000 followers of the municipal links in Schenley Park, are in action here today preliminary to the big show tomorrow, when 125 competitors, representing 31 cities in the United States and Canada, enter the qualifying test in the sixth national amateur public links championship at the Ridgewood golf course here.

Carl K. Kauffmann, ace of the Pittsburgh contingent, is leading his team-mates in the early practice rounds and ranked up front with the low scorers yesterday, when, after taking a 78 in his first round for the day, he turned in a card of 76 late in the afternoon. This card tied with the other low scorers, Lester Bolstad, of Minneapolis, the defending champion; Richard J. Walsh, New York City former title-holder, and Robert Hamilton, of Philadelphia.

McDonough Arrives.

Pat McDonough, city champion, the last of the Pittsburgh pack to reach the scene, arrived late last night with John J. Burns, executive committeeman, of Pittsburgh, on the public links section of the National Golf Association.

McDonough was among the early arrivals at the links this morning and prepared for at least two practice rounds today. His team mates, especially Kauffmann, have had the advantage of several days over the layout.

The other members of the Pittsburgh team, W. E. Howell, Dick Wessell, S. Walter Phillips and C. J. Lunden, are satisfied with their efforts to date, although none reached par. Phillips hit 79 yesterday. He played well for the first nine, reaching the turn one over perfection, a 38. Coming in, however, he had a sudden attack of putting fever and took a 41.

Duplicates Par 37.

Kauffmann duplicated par 37 to reach the turn and registered a 39 on the inner nine. The other members of the team broke 80 for their initial trip, but in the late afternoon Lunden and Howell faltered on the greens and did not turn in their cards.

The Ridgewood course, semi-public links, promises many thrills for the free linkers. The greens are in perfect condition and, judging from the early trials, the championship will be a putting contest. Veterans of previous tourneys are satisfied that the perfect putter will be up front when the last act is staged next Saturday.

Bolstad is picked to repeat, but there are many fast shooters in his path, with Kauffmann ranking up front. The Pittsburgh ace appears to be putting normally, but has developed a slice from the tee.

In today's practice rounds he hopes to overcome this handicap and with his putter working should have no difficulty marching through the qualifying test. Once inside the roll of honor there are only 32 berths for the 125 entries.

Kauffmann will display his real game, being at his best in match play.

The annual intercity team match between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia is scheduled for late this afternoon. In the event the course is crowded, the match will probably be rolled off

Four-Man Team.

Omaha sent a four-man team to represent that city in the championship tilt, bringing the total number of teams for the Warren G. Harding cup competition to 31, the largest number to compete in the history of the event. The previous high mark was 18, in 1923, at Washington.

Of the 125 entries, 45 players are veterans, having participated in previous tourneys. Three of the players, Dick Walsh and William F. Serrick of New York, and Edward Curtin, of Newark, participated in every tournament.

The 31 cities represented are: Baltimore, Boston, Brooklyn, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Detroit, Erie, Hamilton, Ont., Jacksonville, Kansas City, Lansing, Minneapolis, Newark, New York, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Richmond, Rochester, St. Joseph, Mo., St. Louis, St. Paul, Seattle, Springfield, O., Toledo, Topeka, Washington and Youngstown, O.

For the first time since the inauguration of the tournament, Toronto, Can., is without representation. This probably is caused by the withdrawal of Ray Bronsdon, who was regarded as the first player on the team from that city. He is now an assistant pro at the Scarboro Golf Club.

Jap Is Entered.

Japan is represented indirectly in the person of Togo Bammoto, city champion of St. Louis. Togo is not a champ from the tee. He hits a short, but accurate drive and is an excellent putter.

The baby of the tourney is W. E. Lockhane, of Richmond, Va., who has just turned 16. The Richmond delegation is expected to arrive today. There are a number of entries who have reached the age of 50 years, but none over that figure. At least none admitted age beyond 55.

As for occupation the machinist is paired with the stenographer; the high school student with the taxicab driver, etc. Among the occupations represented are painters, iron workers, college and high school students, machinists, tool design supervisor, linotype machinists, railroad engineers, furniture workers, commercial artists, clerk, merchant, salesman, accountants, draftsman.

The florist is here as well as the fruit dealer, the lawyer, civil engineer, government inspector, gardener, real estate broker, plate printer of the United States Treasury, practicing physician, executives and bank bookkeepers.

The qualifying test will start tomorrow, when 18 holes will be played. The other round will be played Wednesday and the elimination match play rounds will begin Thursday. There will be consolation matches for the non-qualifiers.

SCOTCH LIBERAL, GOLF KING SAYS

Atlanta, Ga., August 1.—(A. P.)—Jibes at Scotch thrift mingle a generous race, in the opinion of Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., who is in a position to know, after bringing away one of the Scots' most prized possessions—the British open championship—played over the far-famed St. Andrews course.

Bobby does not stop in his praise of Scottish liberality when he has told his pleasure at the historic reception they gave him at the eighteenth green after he had sunk the putt that won the title. The old course has never seen such an overwhelming ovation, so the oldest old-timers of St. Andrews say themselves.

"But that's not all," says Bobby in telling how grateful he was. "A Scotchman made me a present of an old feather ball, the kind the game began with hundreds of years ago. Apart from the sentimental value he attached to it, he could have sold it any time for hundreds of dollars; they are rare possessions.

"They pressed other gifts on me, as well," said Bobby. "Some of them so precious I can hardly believe it myself—since they all represent the sentimental attachment of the Scotchman for the traditions that surround the game of golf, especially in St. Andrews' vicinity."

Tired from his hurried trip, his victory and the welcomes that have marked his rapid trip back home, Bobby is not thinking golf any farther ahead than the national amateur at Minikhada, which begins August 22.

"I'm not going to think about the British open next year," he declared. "I may reserve decision until the last minute again.

"It seemed to work this time."

After the amateur championship has been decided, Bobby declares he will get back to his law books.

"I have had a good, long vacation and there is a lot of law to be read before I'm admitted to the bar," he declared, in explaining that he would attend no lectures at Emory University until fall, but felt that he could hasten his course to completion by reading during the summer months.

Plan Channel Swim.

New York, August 1.—(A. P.)—Two 15-year-old Zitterbell twins, Bernice and Phillis, of New York, who this summer established a record of 12 hours and 10 minutes swimming down the Hudson River from Albany to New York, rested early today on the French liner Ile de Grace for an attempt to swim the English channel.

SEEK NEW MOTIVE IN AGENT'S MURDER

Stotler's Personal Effects Are Searched for Notes on Conspiracy.

VICTIM OF GANG, BELIEF

[illegible] August 1.—(Special.)—The effects of Hunter R. Stotler, slain Federal prohibition agent, were being examined today for a possible new motive for his murder at the hands of Reginald E. Walters, prohibition underworld man, who confessed the crime. Walters claimed in his confession that he killed Stotler because of the agent's friendship with his wife.

Mrs. Stotler, personal files of which Stotler kept take from seized upon the request of John D. Fleming, new prohibition administrator of the Pittsburgh district, and it is hoped that somewhere in these can be found something that will show that Stotler was suspicious of Walters, reported [illegible] with moonshiners here.

Murray to Return

Capt. Roger Murray, federal investigator, will return here today for an interview with Ewart M. Rinker, of Martinsburg, W. Va., confidant of the latter, whom Stotler had the impression and who charged Walters with [illegible] Federal agents and with working hand in hand with a big moonshine syndicate here.

Rinker, in an interview yesterday, charged that Stotler had only knew of Walters' relations with moonshiners, but that he was preparing to prefer charges against him and was seeking evidence to corroborate these charges at the time he was murdered. Rinker declared that Stotler confided to him and also to Mrs. Stotler that he had heard of Walters' alleged connections with the moonshiners and that he was seeking corroborative evidence. Rinker declares that he and Mrs. Stotler were in this city the same day that Walters claimed he learned of the infidelity of Mrs. Walters.

Rinker, who is a private detective and was in the employ of the Federal prohibition enforcement service until recently, said he would reveal what was in the letter he wrote to Stotler, who is the dry agent, a week before he was murdered on a lonely mountain road near Hoodsboro, dashed upon Walters at his home. Walters admits that Stotler produced the letter while they were quarreling about the alleged attentions of the dry agent to Mrs. Walters. This was early on the morning of Stotler, July 16, when Walters tiptoed down the stairs and came in upon Stotler and his wife in the kitchen. When Walters accused his wife and the agent Stotler denied the accusations and produced the letter which he said the writer charged Walters was double-crossing the prohibition enforcement service which employed him and was tipping off a certain gang of moonshiners operating the Frog Hollow district of Washington county, near Harpers Ferry.

Active in Cleanup.

State Attorney Ballentine believes that this letter and additional information that Rinker can give the federal authorities will reveal another motive behind the slaying of Stotler, who had been a thorn in the flesh of moonshiners operating in Washington county. Up until Stotler was assigned to the federal service two years ago he had been employed by the West Virginia dry enforcement department and several raids he made across the line into the Frog Hollow section caused a heated discussion by those unfriendly to the Volstead law as to whether or not the enforcement officers employed by one state could make raids in another. At that time the West Virginia authorities contended that most of the whisky coming into northern and eastern West Virginia was made in the Frog Hollow section and that the only way to stop it was to raid the source of supply.

When Stotler was named to the district comprising Allegheny, Washington and Garrett counties he launched a drive against the Frog Hollow section, getting 14 large stills on his first raid and six in his second a few days later, but failed to find anyone attending the stills when he made his raids. Numerous threats had been heard against Stotler and he had spoken of these warnings, but said he did not fear danger from the moonshiners.

Stotler's raids began to prove costly to the moonshiners so many stills did he destroy and from information in the hands of the state attorney, it is known that this moonshine gang had threatened to "get" him. Whether or not Walters was the tool of this band is what the state attorney is endeavoring to find out.

Purse Raised, Claim.

It was learned from an authoritative source that this same Frog Hollow gang has raised a big purse for the defense of Walters. Saturday a local attorney was approached by a man known to be the brains of the outfit, who offered to put up money for Walters' release on bail. This coming after the reported hatred [illegible] Frog [illegible] Hollow moonshiners for [illegible] ters [illegible] of his activities [illegible] them [illegible] somewhere [illegible] tion [illegible] resi[illegible] Wal[illegible] to be [illegible] track [illegible]

PROBE DEATHS OF ARMY FLYERS

Three Airmen Killed in Indiana, One in Kansas; Others Hurt.

New Castle, Ind., August 1.—(Associated Press.)—An investigation was begun today into the deaths yesterday of Lieut. George G. Myers, aged 35 years, former pilot in an Army overseas bombing squadron during the World War, and two youthful passengers who were killed when Myers' commercial plane crashed. Evan Irwin, aged 17 years, son of a local banker, and Paul Wise, aged 21 years, Indiana University student, were the other two killed.

Myers had just flown the plane, a new one, from Kansas City. After taking off yesterday with his two passengers, Myers' ship was seen to suddenly dip upward at an altitude of 200 feet and then go into a nose dive. The plane fell 65 yards from the hangar and burst into flames. The three were killed instantly.

Wichita, Kas., August 1.—Lieut. C. A. Pearson, who was killed when his plane crashed here yesterday, was piloting a "Jenny" ship of the type recently condemned by the Army as obsolete, officers investigating the accident said today in reporting engine trouble as the apparent cause.

Lieut. C. W. Luthey, navigator, who was injured, was said to have a chance of recovery.

Manila, August 1.—Lieuts. Julian B. Haddon and Armour S. Hoffley narrowly escaped death here today when their two Army planes collided in air at Clark Field here. Haddon was slightly injured but Hoffley escaped unhurt.

RS-1 BREAKS OWN RECORD IN FLIGHT

Dirigible Back in Hangar After Being Aloft 36½ Hours.

Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., August 1.—(Associated Press.)—Having broken its previous record for sustained flight, the RS-1, the world's largest semi-rigid airship, was back in its home hangar today after remaining aloft 36½ hours on a successful trip from Lakehurst, N. J.

In response to a radio message last night, a landing party of 79 men was assembled to bring the huge cigar-shaped craft to the earth and stow it away. The drone of its motors and the sparkle of its red, white and green lights heralded its coming. Circling the field the ship landed gently with the aid of beacon lights playing upon the field and hangar.

The last leg of the flight required slightly more than one and one-half days, during which time the ship tried to land both at Buffalo, N. Y., and near Cleveland, but was prevented by rainy weather. Its crew of nine men commanded by Lieut. Col. John A. Pargelow then headed the ship straight for Scott Field.

Two landings were made during the trip, one at Langley Field, Va., and the other at Lakehurst.

MOTORIST PREVENTS AGED MAN'S SUICIDE

Hastily stopping his automobile as he was driving across the Sixty-second Street Bridge, Edward Dalton, Jr., of 1418 Union Bank Building, ran to the rail of the bridge in time to prevent John Morton, aged 74 years, of 22 Claybaugh way, North Side, from leaping to his death in the Allegheny River on Saturday morning, it was announced this morning by the Rev. Morton, of Johnstown, a brother of the aged man.

Morton suffered an injury to the head several months ago, his brother said, and since that time has been under the care of his sister, Mrs. Marie Quinn, at the Claybaugh street address. Early Saturday morning he left home without his sister's knowledge, the Rev. Morton said.

After rescuing the man, Dalton brought him to the downtown where he secured a taxicab in which Morton was taken to his home. Dalton's machine was damaged when it was struck by another machine in making the sudden stop.

PARLEY WILL FAIL BEFORE WEEK-END IS PREDICTION

Naval Experts See Little Hope in Temporary Postponement of Plenary Session.

COOLIDGE WATCHES CLOSELY

Geneva, Switzerland, August 1.—(Associated Press.)—That nothing short of a miracle can prevent a breakup of the three-power naval reduction conference before the week ends, either by a quiet agreement among the delegates to separate or by a showdown in the plenary session called for Wednesday or Thursday, was the general impression prevailing in Geneva today.

The fact that the plenary session, called for today, was postponed to Wednesday or Thursday, was looked upon by commentators as a victory for the "treaty at any price" party, which has adherents in all three delegations, but the postponement was not at all to the liking of the experts of the British and American delegations, who are said to realize that there can be no reconciling of the British and American viewpoints and to feel that nothing can be gained by the delay.

Japan Is Anxious.

The Japanese, thanks to whose mediation it appears the breathing spell of two or three days was obtained, seem satisfied. They feel that nothing should be left undone, because in their opinion if great Britain and the United States separate without an accord on limitation, and if the latter particularly starts a big building program, Japan would be hard put to follow suit.

Mr. Gibson has let it be known that, unless a way to prevent a rupture is found in discussions that are bound to take place among the plenipotentiaries between now and the plenary session, he will set forth the American viewpoint in firm, but moderate, language, and then will recommend that the conference adjourn sine die, on the ground that no good could come of further negotiations.

President Troubled.

Rapid City, S. D., August 1.—A close ear to developments at the Geneva naval armament conference was given today by President Coolidge as he watched the day's happenings apprehensively.

Troubled by the turn of affairs taken at this parley, which he had so hopefully convened more than a month ago, the President has taken an active hand in the last few days, although still behind the scenes. Over the week end, Mr. Coolidge had kept in closest touch with the program across the sea by communication with Washington.

GIRLS TO COMPETE FOR PLANE RIDES

The contest committee of the Langley Beacon Association last night announced the rules of the contest by which 50 Pittsburgh girls are to be given airplane rides ranging from one to 10 hours.

Any girl working for a company employing 50 or more persons in the Pittsburgh district is eligible for the contest. Where there are several large units of the same organization it will be divided into groups, so that several girls may be entered from one company.

To the 10 girls obtaining the largest per capita contributions to the fund from the organization she represents will be given a round-trip airplane flight to Atlantic City and probably also an autographed photograph of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, young air hero, who comes to Pittsburgh this week.

The 10 girls who obtain the next highest per capita contributions will be given a round-trip flight to Washington, D. C. The 10 following them will be given a round-trip flight to Cleveland, O., and the next 30 girls will be given an hour's airplane flight over Pittsburgh.

The Langley Beacon Association will apply for a charter this week for the purpose of "raising funds for the erection of a memorial to the pioneers of aviation at Pittsburgh's historic Point, to extend approximately 200 feet into the air," on the top of which will be surmounted what the committee plans will be "the most powerful beacon light in the world."

A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, is temporary chairman of the committee, permanent officers of which will be named at a meeting at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Chamber of Commerce directors' room.

Pending permanent organization of the association, temporary headquarters have been established in the community affairs section of the Chamber of Commerce. Applications from Pittsburgh girls who wish to enter the contest should be sent to Reul W. Elton, secretary. The contest will run until September 15.

MODERN WOMAN'S DRESS SENSIBLE, PASTOR SAYS

Marblehead, Mass., August 1.—Declaring that modern styles were giving the feminine body its first chance in history to develop grace and beauty, the Rev. Edward H. Cotton, Unitarian minister, startled his congregation by asserting that women never dressed so sensibly as they do today.

Washington Seismograph Spotted China Earthquake

Locating Tremors With Precision in Any Part of World Is Matter of Every Day Routine for Coast and Geodetic Survey Officials.

WASHINGTON, August 1.—(Associated Press.)—Within a few hours after delicate seismograph needles at a score of stations over the Western Hemisphere began signalling an earthquake May 23, the Coast and Geodetic Survey announced from Washington that the shock was a serious one, and located its incidence somewhere in the Kansu region of China. Two long months after that announcement the actual news began to trickle in from that isolated section of China, reporting that 100,000 lives had been lost in the disaster.

It has now become a matter of everyday routine for Commander N. H. Heck, the survey's chief of seismological study, and his staff to locate with precision the spot affected by earthquakes, even when the disturbance, as in this case, is 10,000 miles away from their quiet chart room, separated by oceans, mountain ranges and continents. Only the occasional emergence to public note of a disaster of great size makes the performance at all unusual for them, for earth tremblors are occurring every day.

Fortunately, Commander Heck observes, most of the continual quakes shaking the earth's surface occur in spots where the damage they cause is of little human moment. Day by day, the seismographs register disturbances somewhere, but when the charts and the calculations are finished, the spot of occurrence is demonstrated most often to be in the deeper parts of the ocean between Siberia and Alaska.

COUNTY TAX CASH COMES IN FLOOD

End of Discount Period Sees Heavy Payments to Treasurer.

The office of County Treasurer Samuel D. Foster was flooded today with checks and money orders from taxpayers in payment of county taxes under the 5 per cent discount. In the last few days of the discount period, which ended with the passing of July, between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 in taxes were received, it was estimated, by the treasurer and his chief clerk, Col. James Costella.

County taxes are discounted up to and including July 31, are payable at face in August and are subject to a penalty of 10 per cent beginning September 1. As the last day of July fell on Sunday, checks were dated July 30 and were accepted bearing that date today. Many large corporations wait until the last day each year to take advantage of interest on cash balances in banks.

The entire county tax bill this year will approximate $14,000,000. It is estimated that nearly $13,000,000 of this has been paid in. More will come in this month. The remainder will be declared delinquent and will be turned over to the delinquent tax collector.

LOCAL SOLDIERS BEST IN DRILL ATTENDANCE

Mt. Gretna, August 1.—(International News.)—Four thousand members of the Pennsylvania National Guard today entered on their last week at the encampment here. The program at Camp Gearty for the last few days at the encampment included a field meet, a sham battle and routine drill under regular army officers.

Rain spoiled visitors' day yesterday, plans having been made to entertain between 10,000 and 15,000 persons, while a scant 2,000 braved the rain to call on the citizen soldiers.

The Headquarters Company, One Hundred and Twelfth Infantry, comprising western Pennsylvanians, today boasted the most perfect drill attendance for an extended period of any outfit in camp. They were rewarded yesterday by motor trips to the Gettysburg battlefield.

The rifle team of the One Hundred and Twelfth bowed to that of the One Hundred and Eleventh, eastern Pennsylvanians, in a contest here, the One Hundred and Eleventh scoring 1,921 points, as against 1,720 for the western Pennsylvanians.

SACCO, VANZETTI PROBE NEARS END

Few Witnesses Remain to Be Heard; Decision Likely Wednesday.

Boston, August 1.—(Associated Press.)—The decision which may mean life or death to Nicola Sacco, Stoughton shoe worker, and to Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Plymouth fish dealer, convicted of a double murder at South Braintree seven years ago, occupied Gov. Alvan T. Fuller today as he prepared to hear the last few witnesses in his long investigation of the case. It is expected to be concluded Wednesday with an announcement of what action, if any, he may take to save the two men from electrocution the week of August 16.

Gov. Fuller worked steadily Sunday on the case except for a brief interval when he visited his 12-year-old son, Alvan, Jr., at the Massachusetts General Hospital. The boy was operated upon Saturday for appendicitis and has since been showing steady improvement.

At the Charlestown State Prison, Vanzetti broke his hunger strike for the second time in two weeks when he partook of meals. Sacco continued to refuse everything.

A crowd of 2,000 braved a downpour yesterday to listen to speakers on Boston Common plead for the men. There were no disorders.

Club Leaders Hold Luncheon

Leaders in the Keystone Athletic club's present membership campaign held their fifth luncheon on the club floor of the William Penn Hotel at noon today.

YORK PREPARING FOR LEGION MEET

12,000 State Veterans to Assemble for Annual Three-Day Conclave.

York, August 1.—(International News.)—Assisted by a staff of officers, clerks and stenographers, James J. Deighan, of Philadelphia, adjutant of the department of Pennsylvania of the American Legion, opened headquarters here today for the state's annual department session and convention which begin Thursday morning.

While Adjutant Deighan and his staff were at work on preparations for the business sessions, local reception and entertainment committees completed their plans for an appropriate welcome for 12,000 ex-doughboys, gobs, marines and red legs, together with their wives and children, who will be in York for the three-day conclave.

Wednesday night Department Commander Robert N. Vail will confer with the state executive board at first official preliminary to the regular sessions. On Thursday morning, delegates to the convention, numbering 650, will gather in the auditorium of the high school to receive the official welcome of Mayor E. S. Hugentugler.

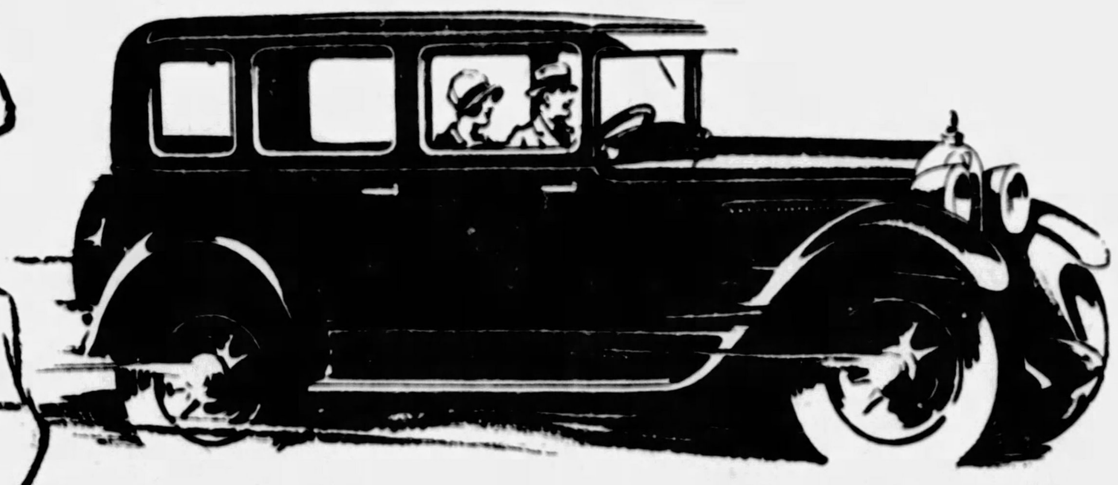
JUDGES NAMED FOR 27TH WARD'S BEAUTY

The president of the Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade has appointed judges to pick "Miss Twenty-seventh Ward" in the beauty contest at the annual picnic of that trade body Thursday at West View Park. The judges are C. F. Hocke, Gustav Fanner, M. Mosurak and Mike Kushner.

NORTH SIDE MAN NABS PAIR OF HOLDUP MEN

Russell Leon, aged 42 years, of West Lacock street, has no respect for the North Side district holdup men. This he showed yesterday when two men demanded that he throw up his hands and deliver his cash to them, while he was walking in East Ohio street, near Madison avenue. Instead of complying, Leon lunged at the leader of the two bandits and knocked him to the street. Swinging around he grabbed the other man as he was attempting to flee. Pedestrians attracted to the scene held the two men until police from the North Side station arrived. When searched at the station, neither man was armed. Eugene English, aged 21 years, of East Ohio street, the leader, admitted they faced a gun by holding their right hand in their coat pocket. English was fined $50 by Magistrate Edward M. Hough, in North Side Police Court yesterday, and his companion, John Bucowicki, aged 23 years, of Straub's lane, was fined $25.

a new Hudson



on 118 inch wheelbase

With the New High Compression Anti-Knock Motor that turns waste heat to power

Thousands have asked us to build a shorter Hudson Super-Six. They wanted in such a type the performance, sturdiness, reliability and luxury of the famous 127 inch Super-Six. So the 118 inch Hudson is built for them; and the 127 inch Super-Six is continued for those who prefer the longer car.

In every detail of motor, clutch, transmission, axles and four-wheel brakes this new compact Hudson Super-Six is identical with the 127 inch models.

Its lighter weight makes possible sensational performance at all speeds. Few drivers will ever call for its maximum. Fuel economy is of a standard never excelled in a car of this power.

Two body types—the Coach and Sedan—are available on this chassis. They are richly upholstered and finished, and designed to give generous, even lounging passenger room.

For those who wish Hudson mechanical and performance leadership on the longer wheelbase, there are five models: the custom-built Brougham, Phaeton and 7-passenger Sedan, and the Standard Coach and 5-passenger Sedan.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Keep Your Feet and Conscience Dry.

In the winter time I devote much of my energy to the reform of my fellowmen in the matter of assuring everybody there is no harm in getting the feet wet. In the summer time I expend almost the same amount of energy trying to help people keep their feet dry. As for the conscience, that should be kept bone dry the year around.

A certain amount of sweating is good for the feet. It acts as the skin cleans and soft and smooth. But when the feet sweat too much one suffers discomfort, embarrassment and even disability, and there is no good reason why one should not check or suppress the sweating of the feet—that is the checking of the sweating in an area of skin not larger than the area of the feet outside of Chicago can do no harm in any way. Some agents employed for the purpose may do harm by irritating the skin.

Many sufferers blame the heat wholly for their discomfort from this source. It isn't the heat, it's the stupidity. When we view the general fashions in footgear we can only wonder that the feet protest so little. Recent styles in feminine footwear achieve one great boon for the ladies, for they are practically barefoot, and after all, going barefoot is the best possible treatment for whatever ails your feet. But the blessing so conferred is attended with a curse. To wit, the irrepressible attachment of a frightfully high, narrow heel to the otherwise commendable sandal or moccasin effect. This stilt walking is all very well for an occasional game, but the girl that tries to keep up on stilts all the time has a sad reckoning coming, not necessarily

In most cases of annoying sweating of the feet it is sufficient to take the remedial measures to go barefoot as much as possible, especially outdoors, to fit your shoes to your feet, not your feet to the fashions or fads of the moment, and to sprinkle freely in the shoes plain talcum such as the powder used to dust the baby or borated talcum powder. In more obstinate cases increase the dose of measures (a) and (b) and instead of (c) use this dusting powder:

One part of salicylic acid	1 dram
Two parts of tartaric acid	2 drams
Forty parts of zinc oxid	5 ounces
Forty parts of talcum	5 ounces

A more potent application, if available, is a solution of one dram of salicylic acid and one-half ounce of glycerin in three ounces of grain alcohol or bay rum. This should be painted on the soles once daily and allowed to dry on. Or if you have a properly equipped medicine cupboard in your home, an occasional sprinkling of boric acid powder in shoes and in stockings will be beneficial.

When your relations threaten to leave home and your friends try to evade you, first measure (c) must take care of the stems as well as the dampness, and you must use a powerful agent and use it with care. Formaldehyde comes in a standard (37 to 40 per cent) solution. Put an ounce (1 ounce) of it in a half pint bottle and fill it up with water. Paint the soles with your solution once a day for a week or 10 days, allowing it to dry before putting on stockings.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ringworms.

What causes ringworms? Are they contagious? How can I get rid of them on baby 18 months old?—Mrs. E. A.

Answer—Ringworms are parasites of the fungus type growing in the horny epidermis and hairs. It is directly contagious. Ringworms of the nonhairy skin surface may be painted daily for three or four days with tincture of iodine (common brown iodine) and alcohol, equal parts. This ought to stop as soon as it sets up inflammation. Patches on the scalp must be epilated—that is, all the hairs pulled out with tweezers—or closely clipped or shaved every few days, and the same treatment applied.

First Aid.

I would like to have your directions for preparing and using a first aid kit in time when a good mouth and tooth wash. I have directions for making it and the directions call for unslaked lime, but I cannot get that in small quantities and I wonder if slaked lime will be just as well.—E. H.

Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for directions for the pocket first aid kit. Lime water is prepared by pouring a quart of water on a lump of unslaked lime the size of a horse chestnut or walnut, in a crock or glass or earthen jar, stirring up, allowing to settle, and then carefully pouring off the upper clear liquid, which is lime water. Shake lime if fresh would be nearly as good as only a little weaker. Lime water is a mild antacid and for that purpose also may be useful for the mouth wash or tooth wash in some circumstances. It was formerly much used in modifying milk for infant feeding and invalid feeding a tablespoonful or two of lime water being mixed with a pint or half pint of milk. It tended to keep the curd fine. Nowadays it is seldom used in infant feeding, the cereal gruels, cereal waters, oatmeal water, barley water, etc., serving the purpose of modern milk modification. So far as supplying calcium (lime) for the nutrition of the body may be concerned a glass of milk contains more lime than a glass of lime water does, and a little cottage cheese of any kind of cheese furnishes more lime to the body than any medicine can, unless the medicine happens to be just glorified cottage cheese dolled up with labels calculated to appeal to our professional sage.

Burns but Doesn't Tan.

I get sunburned, but never tanned. As soon as the preceding sunburn has disappeared I burn again, yet never seem to tan.—F. W. H.

Answer—Probably intermittent exposure and excessive exposure. Try following a schedule limiting exposure to five minutes three times daily, and gradually lengthening five minutes daily.

Answer to Correspondent.

Old Subscriber—In neither Webster's nor the Standard Dictionary does the term "sidewipe" appear, but "sidewipe" appears in both. Webster's defines it as a covert, underhanded blow. The Standard calls it a colloquialism, defining it as a cattroad term for a wiping blow, as in a collision. However, since the advent of the automobile the word "sidewiped" has come into popular usage.

A splendid way to use up bits of meat.

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1927.

Until late in the day the planetary government is sinister, according to astrology, and for that reason it is better to seek pleasure than to muddle business affairs.

For farmers and all who depend directly on the land for sustenance there is a good sign, making for governmental interest as well as favorable weather conditions.

Real estate continues subject to the best possible conditions and there should be much buying while this configuration prevails.

Some sort of controversy over aviation is indicated by the stars and the government of the United States may become involved.

While this rule prevails there may be much wrong thinking on the part of persons commonly called intelligent, for the stars presage fear where personal ambitions are involved.

In the west much political agitation and dissension is foreshadowed with gain of popularity for persons who wield wide influence.

Merchants and manufacturers should be exceedingly conservative while this rule prevails, for it is not a time for important initiative.

For the month of August a great storm accentuated by winds of great violence is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an important year in which the realization of long ambitions will bring happiness.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly intellectual and natural leaders. Orators are born under this sign.

GIRLHOOD TO MOTHERHOOD

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school. I finally had to quit school, I was so weak. I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning thru their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it recommend it to their daughters as a dependable medicine.

In skin care is credited with bringing schoolgirl complexions to thousands

By NORMA SHEARER

THE modern rule for beauty is a simple one: a proved complexion soap and water to keep the skin and pores clean; "make-up," powder and rouge thoroughly cleared from the skin every night before bed.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and tify the skin.

Wash the face gently Palmolive. Massage its balmy and palm oil lather into the Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Do that regularly, and particularly at night. Note how much better your skin in even one week.

MONTREAL WELCOMES WALES AND PREMIER

St. Lawrence Shores Dense With Cheering Subjects as Heir Passes By.

Montreal, August 1 — (United Press.) Montreal was in a holiday mood today as it began its rounds of honors to the future king of England and Great Britain's prime minister.

The royal party, including the Prince of Wales, his brother, Prince George, Premier Stanley Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin, arrived last night from Quebec on a river steamer.

After a welcome in the harbor which climaxed a day of saluting and cheering by river craft and people along the shores as the craft proceeded up the river, the party stopped ashore under a blaze of lights and was conducted to the hotel for the night.

The party left Quebec after attending services at the Cathedral of the Holy Trinity, a church more than 100 years old. A salute of 17 guns at 15 second intervals boomed from the citadel above as the steamer began its journey to Montreal.

Clicking Camera as He Drives Causes Prince of Wales to "Dub" Shot

Quebec, August 1 — Even a prince loses his temper on a golf course.

The well-known composure of the Prince of Wales cracked wide open here on the Roseheatel course when a camera clicked just as H. R. H. drove from the third tee. "Rattled" by this new mental hazard, he topped his drive, and the ball rolled only 75 yards.

The prince, who had congratulated himself on having escaped from the crowds, glared at the offending camera man, hidden behind a tree. "Curse these photographers," he muttered to his brother, George, and strode down the fairway in pursuit of his ball.

Letter to the Editor

Mr. McElvany's Last Word.

Editor of The Chronicle Telegraph:

As the unnamed champion has entered the lists and written a terrific reply to my letter published last Saturday, M. T. H. may have by his letter shown some brainless thinking, and possibly it may be true that I have talked silly and stupid, but by the shades of Balaam and his fourfooted friend this Y person has given us something that is simply asinine—not an ass like Balaam's either, for that animal talked sense.

In the first place, Mr. Y shows that he is incapable of understanding a figure of speech and raves about subjecting an American citizen to such a mental task as taking off Dr. Orr's shoes. My only comment on this is: Five schools and such low foreheads.

Mr. Y then proceeds: "Who is this Dr. Orr that he must not be criticised?" Looking over my letters, I find nothing that even suggests such a thing; the word used was "assail."

Mr. Y seems also to be ignorant of what "criticism" means, therefore we will endeavor to enlighten him. A critic knows and is able to judge from known standards what are the defects, if any, of what he is criticising, such as music, art, literature, etc., and suggests improvements; or he may also commend the good points. But M. T. H. did not criticise Dr. Orr, but made a sweeping denunciation of him, failing to lay his finger on a single act that was wrong, but promised that he would be shown up at some future time. This was mud throwing. (I might add here for the benefit of Y that the use of the words "slinger" and "mud" is not meant literally.)

The "pernicious activity" of Dr. Orr and other ministers is denounced by Y. It would have been enlightening to us all if this person would have explained why a minister should be denied the privilege of an American citizen in opposing anything he thought was wrong whenever or wherever he found it.

As far as the writer is concerned this letter will close the incident. I hope that the readers of the "Tele" will excuse the seeming pedantry contained in this letter; it was not meant for them, for they are intelligent, but for M. T. H. and Y—A. S. S., otherwise known as persons afraid to sign their names.

Yours very truly,
JOHN M. McELVANY
Pittsburgh, July 29, 1927.

2 Minutes to Answer This

Among the specimens of flotsam and jetsam which the tides and drifting sands cast at times upon the beach, nothing compares in interest with bottled messages, supposed to be the farewell words of shipwrecked humanity, giving a graphic description of the fate which had befallen some long lost and almost forgotten vessel.

Such messages from the sea, in times past have told wonderful tales of shipwreck, privations and narrow escapes in a way that suggested the possibilities of the writers still being alive in Arctic regions or on unknown islands, which, in some instances, have been fully confirmed. In the British collection of such tales as have been officially investigated and authenticated are many proven to be true, which furnish clues to the fate of ships lost hundreds of years ago, which show that the messages cast upon the waves had drifted for centuries in midocean before landing.

As a rule the modern style of the paper, to say nothing of the date blown in the champagne bottle, give away the hoax, nevertheless, the subject bears such a fascinating charm that the finders will not be influenced by such arguments as might discredit the truth of the wonderful narratives.

Here for instance, is an oddity presented in puzzle form, assumed to have been written ages ago. It has been put into verse by a modern translator, for of course it is but reasonable to question the seriousness of a shipwrecked mariner who would take time to construe his last message in verse. It is the paradoxical or unnatural statement of the writer that we have to deal with and which raises the question as to who could have written the message:

"A mighty ship I now command.
With cargo rare from every land.
No goods have I to trade or sell;
Each wind will serve my turn as well.
To neither port nor harbor bound,
My greatest wish to run aground."

Now, who can tell who by plain inference, was the author of those lines?

A Question.

The largest cube in the drawing is labeled six pounds.

Will the combined weight of the other cubes be greater, equal or less than the weight of the single large cube?

Remember that each cube is a perfect one, its height, breadth and thickness being the same. Each cube is, of course, made of the same material as the others.

HOTEL GUESTS FLEE $250,000 BLAZE

Waycross, Ga., August 1.—(Associated Press.)—Fire starting in the kitchen of the Exchange Hotel here early today destroyed the hotel and six stores in the heart of the city before it was brought under control.

Fire fighting apparatus from Jacksonville aided in quenching the blaze.

The blaze was confined to a single block at the intersection of Pendleton and Elizabeth streets a short distance from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Station. The Orpheum Theater was damaged.

The loss was estimated at between $200,000 and $250,000, partially covered by insurance.

No injuries were reported, although guests in the Exchange Hotel were forced to flee in their night clothes and some were rescued by hotel officials and police.
